Into the Grey

Mist

I look out into the grey mist of reality trying to formulate my ideals. The grey areas offer me a soft consolation and a two edged sword. They tell me to live and learn. They tell me, "Formulate and do not be afraid to change."

Wayne High School is a grey area. An area for change and growth. Perhaps all did not grow, but all who came away from the experience . . . changed. We both learned and forgot, cried and laughed, hated and loved. Then relearned the things we forgot, laughed over the things we had cried over, and learned to respect some of the things we had hated. We filled the grey areas with the favorite colors of our lives. We grew.

The Lone Artist

By Randy Correll

Through the arts man visibly shows growth and change. His feelings and emotions are expressed through creation which becomes a history book of his past. The yearbook is the creation of many people and so gives many views of our world; here we pause to look at the singular vision of the lone artist. Each presents an individual look at our life and times — our religions quests, and our concern for self.

The design on Jesus's face and aura gives him a depth and dimension that might have been lost if Randy were to have used another medium. The use of a checker board design contrasts beautifully with his hair giving Christ a wizened visage.

A love of architecture can be expressed many ways. One is to actually create or to flatter by painting a well loved building. Sherry's choice of season works well with this building as it too looks cold and barren.

Man in his desperate search for himself may become fragmented. He begins to have no common focus and he soon must rely on how others perceive him. Bobby's painting of Elvis Presley, gives the viewer a look at a confused and complex man.

The artists have used all of the shades of grey to create these pictures and have given us glimpses of their thoughts and emotions and the world we live in.

By Sherry Boatright

By Bobby Dillion

Single Vision

Watercolors can be used to accent the dull and accentuate the fascinating. When one thinks of watercolors they either think of elementary school Prang or the greats such as Winslow Homer, John Singer Sargent, and Andrew Wyeth.

Watercolors seem to lend themselves to emotion more than the other mediums; oils and pastels seem too deliberate. Watercolor is a chancy medium, and only the masters can wield the brush well.

These new artists have proven their ambition by simply attempting to use this medium. Tony Tribolet's stylized sailboat reminds one of a sultry day on the sea.

Rhonda's technique of a slight bleed shows her maturity as a painter, giving the flowers more depth and breadth.

Artists feel the emotion in the scenes that they paint, capture it in solid form, and relay it to their public, it is hoped that Shades of Grey can capture and relay the emotion of your past year.

By Tony Tribolet

Marilyn,

To a super cool chick who's crazy as hell. Stay that way and don't forget about our last year at Wayne. Party down!

Focus

Emotion is remembered in tranquility. When one recalls anger, the anger is no longer there. When one remembers being so filled with excitement that one could float, one's feet are firmly planted on the ground, and one only smiles. The reflection of events appear in a greyish haze.

I'll grimace when I remember the words that once were shouted in anger, but I won't get angry. I'll grin while recalling the numerous times I preached about school pride, but I doubt if I'll laugh.

A yearbook can not recreate moments. Its purpose is simply to remind, to make remembrances more vivid, to shape images in the greyish haze. This book will focus that grey and change it into a memory. Look, read, and remember.

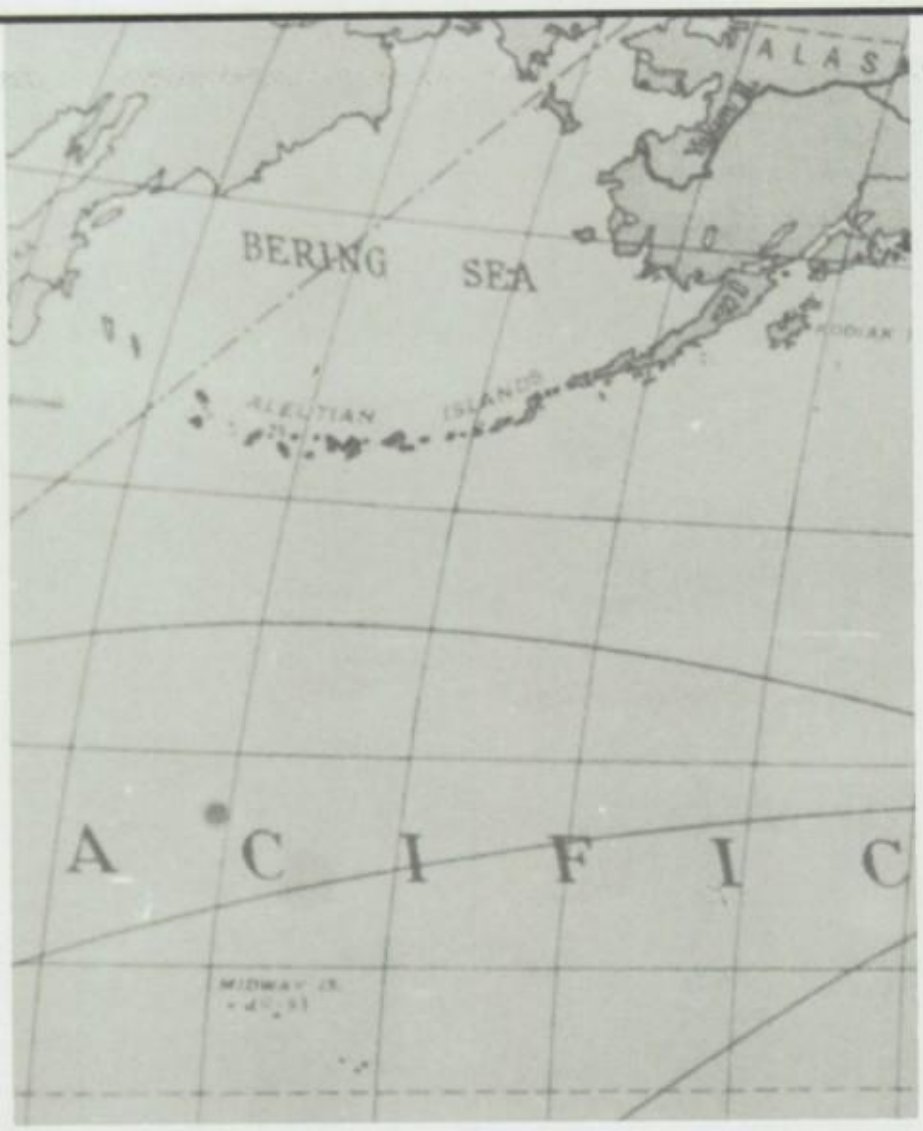
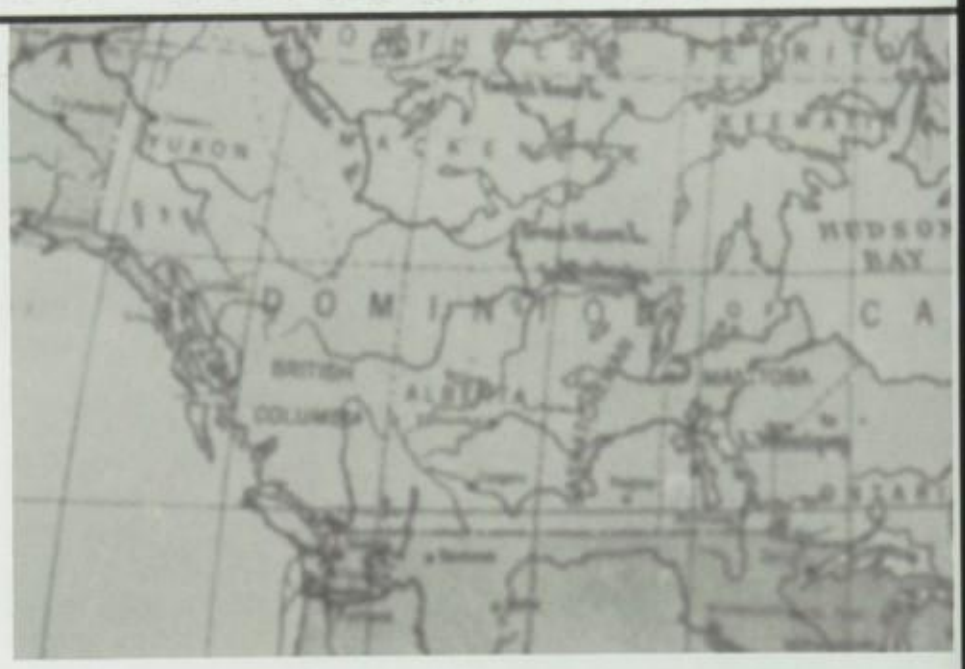
Mice, Mazes, and Machiavelli





Vicki Anderson
John Churchward

The study of the social forces of the world around us are condensed into courses called Social Studies. For seniors the choices are four, for juniors there is only one game in town. From U.S. History during the eleventh year to either Psychology, Economics, or Sociology and Government during the last year, with World and Indiana History possible any old time.

The mice and their mazes or Machiavelli and his Prince taught us about the socialization around us. Valuable information about our Congress, President, and Supreme Court is also tolerated. And not to be forgotten is the ever popular clock watching. All this and much more was gathered in the years spent in the Social Studies Department.

NOT SO SQUARE AFTER ALL

John Bierbaum

Will Doehrman

Square the quadratic and take the sin over the cosin. Graph the equation and rotate the result forty-five and a half degrees. One and one is still two, even after it is divided by five, multiplied by five halves, added to seven and divided by four. The solution is still two. You can divide it, square it, subtract it or substitute it: It is still two.

We can thank Mathematics for this amazing discovery. Those calculating math teachers help the students wade through the puddles of numbers, fractions, equations, circles, plans (not air) and angles (not Charlie's.) Adding and subtracting is just the beginning. Now they can relate and function. They can focus and they can even be graphed.

Either a doe, a ray, a me, or a "To be or not to be," these art finds are fine art finds — ranging from a man with some music and an exchange that was somewhat fair to two seasons of concerts and some singers with some of their friends. The creative craft of stage construction should also be included in this art treasure. (With an award winning crew how could they go wrong.) With "some old songs and some new songs, some borrowed and some blue songs"[1] it's even better.

Johnny has finally learned to read, thanks to those literate teachers of English. Johnny can write effectively, speak profitably and read advancedly. Johnny has read about the effects of war, learned to write a research paper, and examined several short story authors. Fiction has seen into the future and become a mystery, the Greeks have been dramatized, and the Seniors composed on the advanced level.

The basic rules of grammar are learned, memorized, used, and used again, and then, alas, forgotten. Numerous literary devices are condensed into a comprehensive course of study. It's this course that develops the creative juices that flow from the pen to the paper . . .

or what ever you want to call it. It's an escape from the reality of English. During one period a day for one, two, three, or possibly four years those students yearning for a little more culture, escape to their class rooms that soon translate into France, Spain, Germany, or The Roman Empire. In these "dream" worlds, one loses their mother tongue for a sister tongue or a brother tongue.

Whatever you call it, it's an experience. Sometimes the experience gets rough, and sometimes it gets easy; but it's different, educational, and always interesting. Most students still wonder why most countries have a different word for dog, cat, boy, girl . . .

Our Girl Friday

Jack Baker

Anyone desiring an "Our Girl Friday" position can get a very good start right here at Wayne. Many skills required by a boss for a good secretary are taught by Wayne's Business Department. Condensation of words and sentences and the quick playing of the 50 or so black and white keys are only two of many. Also in the business world at Wayne are the classes in which data is processed, clerical is practiced, and accounts are accounted for.

How to succeed in business, the D.E. or C.O.E. way should not be forgotten either. Valuable on-th-job-training is available for students. Who knows, perhaps the next president of Lincoln National Bank is here at Wayne.

There's always another world to be explored. Though not exactly a language, the complex terminology makes these worlds appear foreign. Those other worlds are translated into easier terms by the resident biologists, chemists and physicists. Micro-organisms, chemicals, and the elusively charming quarks seem to be alien objects of examination. These things are discovered and rediscovered to help teach the aspiring Einsteins about the world within and the world beyond.

Bruce Jenner would be proud of Wayne's resident Jack LaLanes. "Of sound body and mind" is not just a cliché, it's a way of life. A physically fit body is a happy body, and who wants a sad body (even though many of us have one.) The rolling sweat and smelly socks are only third and fourth to the agony of defeat and Co-Ed gym classes.

At the termination of each school year, Wayne's Home Ec Department releases into the world job squads of Happy Homemakers of tomorrow. Adding pinches of salt, knitting one and pearling two, and basting one's very own hem, are several of the chores tackled by the future domestic engineers. For many curious students, their brush with this department was Wayne's answer to Sex Education, mildly called "Human Development."

What creativity lurks in the hearts of men is unpredictable. Working constructively with wood and electrically with small engines are two facets of the G-Hall. A vast education of the workshop is explored by the expert wood, metal, and electronic workers.

Those masters of wood also erect wooden sheds on various sites. On the other side and in another hall are the drafters. Plans are articulated from the imagination and given visual form.

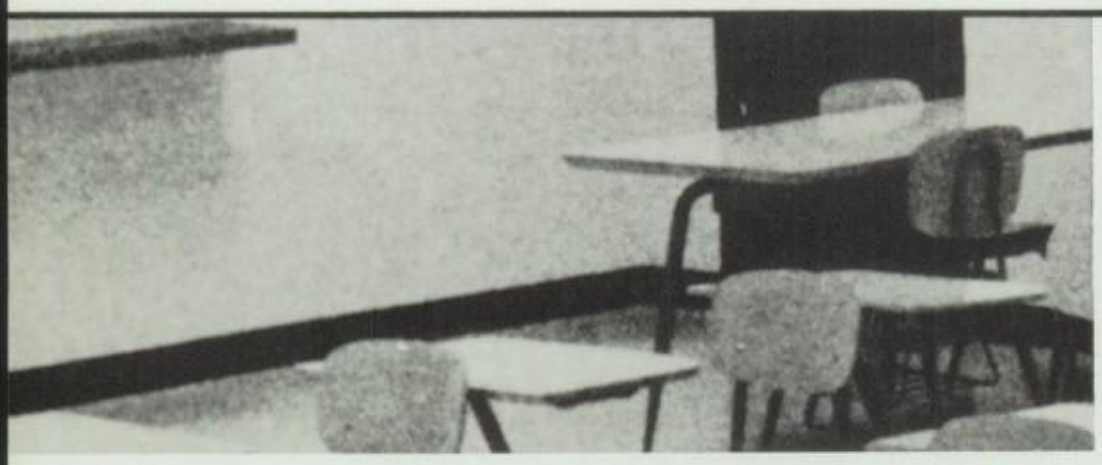
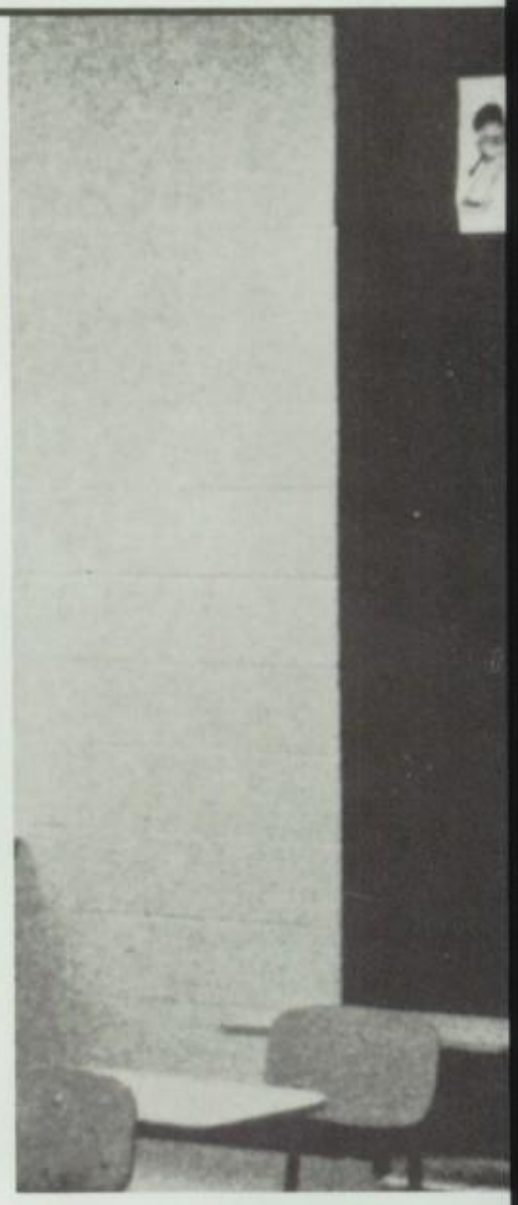
The Separate Two



William Blosser



Aside from the normal, everyday, ordinary, monotonous, tedious, never ending routine of the class room schedule, there are two courses that are different. One is for those who excel in a particular craft, while the other is for those who need more than the regular class room routine. The former being Regional Vocational School, and the latter being the Work/Study program. While each program has a special group of students, each program is special to that group. Work/Study helps those who want to help themselves and R.V.S. helps those who do help themselves.

LIKE ROMEO AND JULIET

Once again several groups made it over the wall, with many classes escaping Wayne's boundaries on field trips. On the local level, the foreign language classes made their annual treks to area restaurants for lunch. In May, Madame Guillot's French Classes dined in style at Cafe Johnell, and Don Pedro's was visited by the Spanish Class. Herr Shearer prepared a meal of blood sausage, cheese, and rumballs; and the Latin Class ended up with the I.U.-P.U. Latin Festival. The freshmen went en masse to Southtown Mall for a showing of Romeo and Juliet.

On the state level a group of underclass Pub People traveled to the Journalism Workshop at Ball State. On the international level, young theatre goers journeyed to the Shakespeare Festival in Stratford, Canada, and Spanish students traveled south of the border.

PEP, MARCHING, STAGE, CONCERT, & WEDDING?

Pep, stage, concert, marching, and wedding all have one thing in common: They are types of bands. The first four are seen at Wayne each year and the last almost as frequently. The marching band appeared at each and every home football game, and the pep band made an appearance at each home basketball game. The concert band, in full ensemble, made its annual winter and spring concert appearances.

Also in attendance at the concerts was the orchestra. This half-sphered body also accompanied the soloists and choruses of The Music Man.

Both the concert band and orchestra made an excellent showing at a contest held at Homestead High School. With "Stars and Bars," "Festivo," and "Festive Overture," the band received a first rating. Wayne's orchestra was the only orchestra in attendance and they too earned a first.

At the NISBOVA contest, two instrumentalists qualified for state competition. John Andrew's rendition of "Prelude and Dance" earned him a first, as Paula Hansel's performance of "Concerto in A Minor" did likewise.

Wayne's Pep Band plays the Wayne School Song during the basketball pre-game ceremonies.

Practicing tirelessly for the fall musical, the pit orchestra follows the direction of Fred Haigh.

The Town

In the midst of the Fine Arts Department is the Music Department of the Fine Arts Department, more specifically the Vocal Music Department of the Music Department of the Fine Arts Department. Those fine choirs are music to our ears. Whether it be The Treble Choir, which is just a fancy, non-sexist name for the girls choir, The Varsity Choir, which makes absolutely no sense as there is no Reserve Choir, The Concert Choir, which makes even less sense as all the choirs perform at the concerts, or The Swing Choir, which can no longer be called the "Swing Choir" but the "General Sensation Singers."

For the first time ever, Wayne's "General Sensation Singers" were invited to the Bishop Luers Invitational Swing Choir contest, and as rookies, they did well. Hours upon hours of preparation went into their 16 minute performance. Solos by Andy Buroker and Barry Minniefield as well as four other songs, helped Wayne's "Singers" to a seventh place finish, one point behind Anderson.

We reprint the following letter to the Editor of The Dispatch to indicate their quality: "An open letter to Jackie Ault, The Wayne Swing Choir, et al . . .

'Thank you for one fantastic day and, in particular 16 dynamic minutes. Had you not been participating in the Swing Choir Contest, I would have not experienced any of the program much less all 14 hours of it. Once there I would not leave. What person who thrills to beautiful music and/or good entertainment would? Had you not performed so well, I could not have been nearly as excited as I was during that 16 minutes, not for many hours afterwards.

All the groups performed well and the entertainment was exceptional but, most naturally, I was partial to you. My partiality was not unrequited; it was fulfilled. There are few times that I have felt as overwhelmed with pride that my hands shook and tears swelled in my eyes. Saturday, it happened.

Certainly, there were flaws — had there not been, you would be reigning champions — but there were moments of absolute brilliance and your entire performance was filled with vibrancy and life that no one could match. You captured the audience, you thrilled your competitors and you impressed everyone. They spoke of you long after you had left the stage. I hope, in fact request, that your performance be presented again and that every person connected with Wayne High School will have an opportunity to thrill as I have.

Thank you again.
Sincerely,

The shoes of the father figure are filled by Wayne's own Mr. William Davis. With his eleven or so assistants, coordinators, and counselors, we never seem to be very far from home. Wayne's description of home may not be the same as yours and mine, so just call it a home away from home . . .

Where else can one find so many authority figures in one place. Our big cheese, Mr. Davis, has three assistants, a director, three counselors, who in turn have an aide. With his own band of aides he's sure never to get stuck.

Yes, We Have Clean Restrooms

Working around the clock to beautify the halls of Wayne High School, Mr. Dunford and his custodial brood once again were successful in their attempts. Working before, after and during regular school hours, as well as before school starts and after it lets out, the crew of custodians heat the school, sweep the halls, empty lockers, and clean the restrooms.

Another crew, without which many students could not survive is the cafeteria staff. Preparing culinary delights and scrumptious cuisine, the women of the kitchen provide us all with nutrition. Either by a-la-carte or by regular lunch, the midday meal fills us all.

Many irate custodians and food service workers expressed their grievances in the form of a strike.

Those wonderful women of the cafeteria help make the midday meal something to look forward to.

Working countless hours on end, the custodians continue their services until long after school ends.

WHERE JOHNNY GOT HIS BOOK

The big M.C. commonly called the Center for Media or Media Center. Misters Thorndike and Barnhart define media as the "plural of medium." All this fits the occasion well, and is so obviously clear that an explanation would be insulting.

Magazines, books, dictionaries, encylopedia sets, spiral stair cases,and study hall windows all combine to form Wayne's Media Center.

The infamous Wayne High School Media Center sits idle, waiting for the next John to get his book.

PUB 54

Fourth period was a very relaxing period for many Pubers, except those who actually worked. So many people have not been packed into a room and told to "be creative now" since last year's summer yearbook sessions. Sue Andorfer amazingly held steady ground as editor-in-chief in exile of the Dispatch. Chris Mattes's chow downs and knock downs with Bork will never be forgotten. Matt Werling's developing a strange and unheard of illness the same day as a De Ja Vu deadline puzzled staffers as much as his fetish for "the chair with wheels." The photogs had their own purgatory. It was called the darkroom.

All this and much more made the Pub room the place to be during fourth period. Their publications speak for themselves and speak well of them. They deserve a hand, and will probably get one — next year. Peters is planning on making newspaper a spectator sport with fan buses to away paste-ups no less.

This spread is for us, those who put the yearbook together. Between the never mentally present advisor and the elusive editor-in-chief, it's a miracle the book was finished. But it was, and it exists as a testimony of growth. I've seen my staff's creative talents grow.

I've seen my chief editor, Mark Summers, surpass me by miles in concept and design. I've seen my activities editor, Erika Hobam, gain more assurance as the year progressed, no longer needing advice. I've seen Kevin Degitz be embarrassed at having a good idea and not knowing how to deal with the success. And John Metzger always a technically good photog bloom into an artist.

I admire all my editors and all the people who stuck with it in the summer. I must mention them so they have at least one number behind their name in the index. I want to thank Kevin Martin for ignoring Greg Stephens. Jay Goldner for substituting for the emotionally ill Kevin Degitz. The Borks for being Polish. Greg Stephens for being the Doug Bloom of yearbook. And Al Peters who I let be flaky and who let me be flaky.

Forever

I prefer not to think of death. When morbid thoughts creep up on me I steady myself with the notion that my end is still light years away. Conversely, I remember a grade schooler wondering at the tremendous release, a little like death, of graduation, but then despairing that graduation, still a distant mist, was light years away.

Another graduation has crept up on us and though once it was thought a vague idea, it has risen up over and behind the Class of '79 leaving them to reflect a little curiously on things past. A rich past it is, too. And though the Class of '79 did not always endear itself to others classes, it was because everything it did, it did well, and with a flair.

All this ended officially by the anti-climactic, and often times, unnecessarily solemn rite of graduation. Someday, no one will cry, and someday no one will frown when a few plucky and expressive grads fling their caps and tassels in the air. And in that small act of defiance, all our high school days are crystallized; "let's rid ourselves of this thing and its trappings forever." Forever, away—

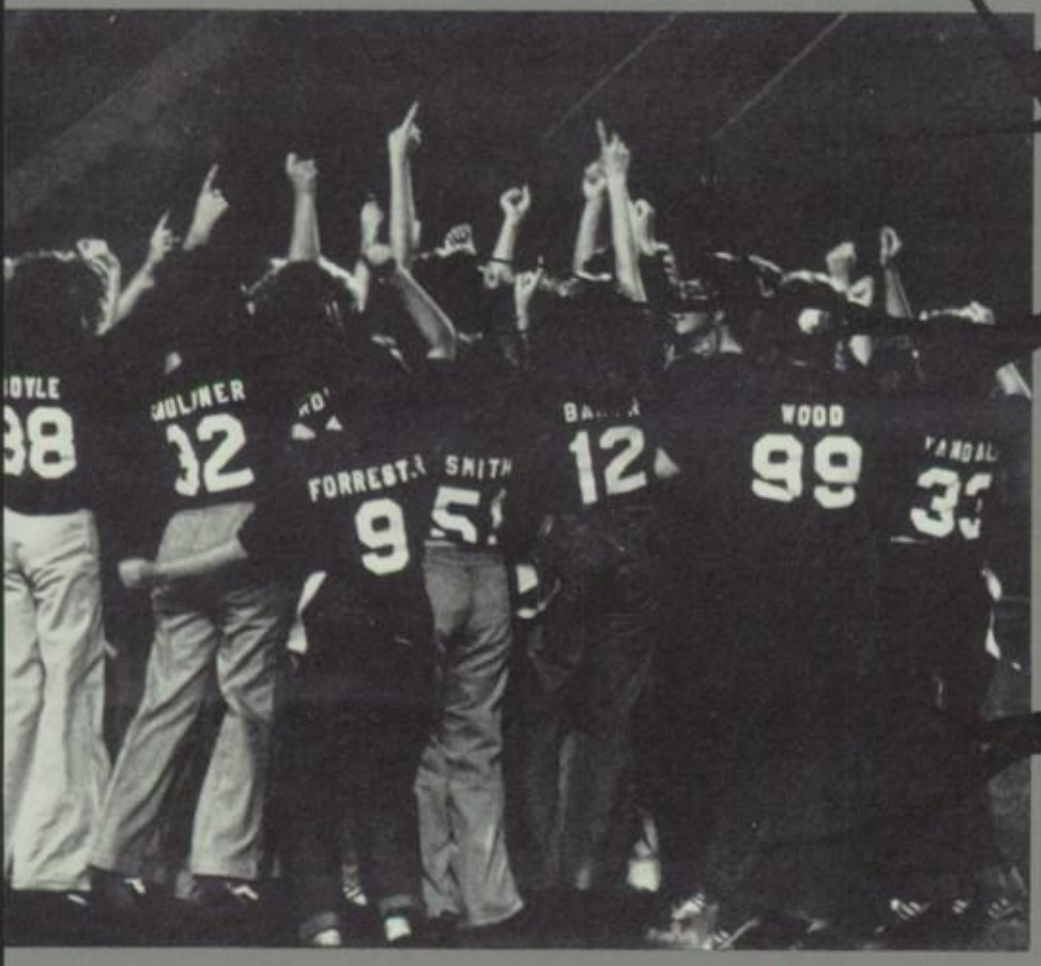
crescendo to



Into our dull, grey routine slipped Spirit Week — a bright palette of colors. The bright colors painted the days with spirit, and the spirit began to flow as Monday approached. Monday, as usual, was totally inside out and backwards only more so.

Tuesday took flight as the biggest hit of the week, because Tuesday was Toga Day, the day where people became emotionally involved with their sheets. Wednesday, the fort was surrounded and no one had a prayer when the Juniors "held up" classes with loaded tootsie rolls, and the West was won.

That evening the Juniors met the Seniors in a showdown, the annual Powderpuff game. At that fateful corral the Seniors shot down the Juniors — 14 to zip. Thursday brought Bonnies and Clydes out of their closets. Suspicious sunglasses, trench coats, submachine guns, and water pistols roamed the school as the Mafia moved in.

Friday, the grand finale, was Hat Day, and the date for the Homecoming Pep Session. At that time the football team was awarded the WMEE Football Team of the Week trophy, and the Homecoming court was introduced. Then Seniors presented a sneak preview of those cuties 50 years in the future. The grey was cleared, the spirit was up, and the music swelled.

Tom Smith, a powderpuff cheerleader, reminds all that the Homecoming theme was "Moonlight Serenade."

Though neither Rhinestone, Midnight, nor Electric, Wayne's cowboys, like Lisa Noble, were "jes' fine, thank ya!"

As a part of Gangster Day, Erika Hoham, Molly Hagan, and Mr. Marsh erased 6 girl scouts in a Poe garage.

"What number are we?" or "How many balls gotta be in play?" The victorious seniors signal the answer.

On Toga Day the seniors shown here laid to rest any suspicions they were sane. Toga! Toga! Toga!

moonlight

The prelude to the Homecoming '78 serenade began with a pep rally starring the shapely powderpuff cheerleaders. The hermaphroditic beauties appeared on the scene for an encore performance, and led the sparse crowd in cheers between chuckles.

Our adversary was Southside and after two grueling quarters the score was tied at seven. The band snapped to attention as the ladies of the court were presented by their escorts.

The Freshman ladies were: Terri Bade, Sandy Gaskill, and Denise Holloway; Sophomores: Shelley Morgan, Rehta Moser, and Cassandra Shirmeyer; Juniors: Shelia Alexander, Debbie Powell, Joel Specht; and the Senior ladies: Lisa Gemmill, Carrie Mathias, Gail Peppler, and Gretchen Smith. The music climaxed as Gail Peppler was announced the 1978 queen. The throne was set in autumn colored plumes that played on the breeze. All were then plunged into darkness as fireworks crescendoed on into the night.

Later, past and present converged on common ground in the night music presented by the class of '79. The haunting melody of the Moonlight Serenade reawoke memories and entwined old friends. It drew bonds tight, "just one more time."

Trouble Rises

What sort of turmoil results when a conspiring, swindling, opportunistic, big time salesman takes on a sleepy, gullible, small Iowa town of traditional idealists. The end result is a twisting, turning, musical comedy.

"The Music Man" was presented in the fall and enjoyed limited success as a thorough, well-developed endeavor. It thrived on the reputation and energy brought to the Wayne Performing Arts Department by last year's musical, "Bye, Bye, Birdie." It did little to disappoint that tradition; in fact, it gave it a shot in the arm of fresh talent and new ideas.

First year music director, Fred Haigh, harnessed the potential energy of the orchestra to compliment Miss Ault's fine choral direction and Mrs. Baker's imaginative choreography. A rousing "SHIPOOPI" goes out to Mr. Perkins as head director and stage crewman, out man behind the stage, and the cast, crew and orchestra of "The Music Man" for a successful, professional attempt at entertaining us.

MOUTHS Strike Again

The speakers blared with Captain Erika Hoham's Speech Team announcements. The windows shook and classes actually paused in their conversations as their blasted eardrums forced them to listen. From terrible puns and humorous remarks emerged the "illustrious" speech team into another successful year.

Every year is the best ever. This year the team grew in numbers, winnings, and overall strength. The talent of the team is encouraged and moulded by lovingly professional hands. After three years on the team and four years as appointed Assistant Coach, Gayle Smith has helped guide a once unnoticed team into an up and coming threat. The once tiny ember is beginning to billow.

The same year the team earned the privilege to become a member of the National Forensic League, it sent it's first representative into National Competition. Molly Hagan also placed first in Drama at State. Coach Stookey was very proud to have such a talented protegée, and the team is proud to have such a talented coach.

The redundant speeches, the redundantly early Saturdays, the redundant excuses and exasperations become . . . redundant, until next Saturday.

Molly Hagan placed twelfth out of 120 competing in Drama at National competition.

COE Sponsor

The Cooperative Office Education Association (COE) turned the giggly young girls of today into the reliable Girls Friday of tomorrow. Wayne's COE was as active as ever, holding many fund-raisers for charity and near charities. COE sponsored another highly successful Powder Puff football game, a sale of candy, and candle sticks and participated in a rock-a-thon to benefit the Special Olympics.

COE is an appreciative group which held a tea for Wayne's secretaries during National Secretary Week, an open house for their employers at Christmas, and a banquet for those same employers in the Spring.

COE provides its students the opportunity to work with employers throughout the year. The girls work every afternoon; learning to file, type, and make excellent secretaries out of themselves. Julie Detwiler was the Outstanding Business student this year, and she, along with Lori Wall and Beth Faulkner, went to the State Finals in COE Indiana competition.

COE honored our own hard working secretaries with a banquet during National Secretaries Week.

Right now I'm having a little difficulty deciding whether or not to get a job. I mean it should be something I've started on a possible career like COE Student Detwiler, Tom and Julie Detwiler, Jeff Hat has to work a craft or get a job like John Metzger working at Sunny Chick. Maybe it should be just a summer job like Peba Mosley or Jackie Martin, or maybe even a permanent job like Beth Block has. Hmmm. I think maybe I'll just go to the movies all summer and sponge off you and Pa. Thanks for all the advice Ma! Love ya son Alfred

Great Aspirations

Students aspiring in Sales, Marketing, Distributing, and Merchandizing find their needs met in DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America). DECA promotes "business awareness" and gives students the experience they need through jobs at various "sponsor" businesses. DE Seniors run the "General Store" in the morning and sell everything from Snickers to Flairs.

Most valuable DECA member, Nancy Demetre, also club secretary, acts as Master of Ceremonies.

The perfect ending to a successful year was the banquet held at the Bearfield Hilton Inn. The mainspeaker and honored guest was Secretary of State of Indiana, Edward Simcox. Mayor Armstrong was also present to present awards. DE's sponsering businessmen were recognized and thanked for their support and guidance throughout the year.

DE President John Hamrick; Sponsor Mr. Howell; Jackie Radu; Kevin McAfee; Sue Huddleston; Nancy Demetre; Dan Bates display their awards in their very own "General" store.

The DE Banquet was a time for handshakes as well as receiving well-deserved recognition and awards.

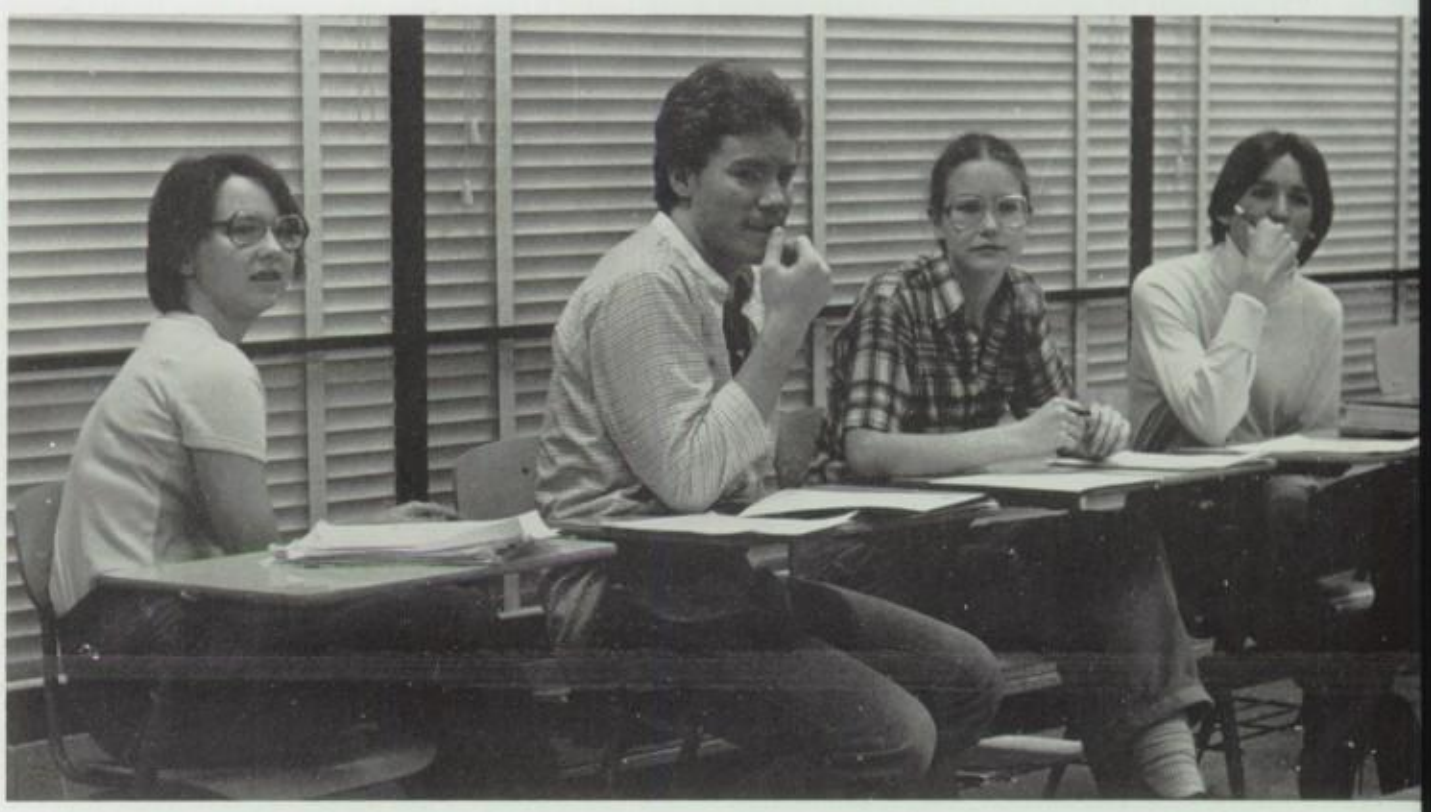
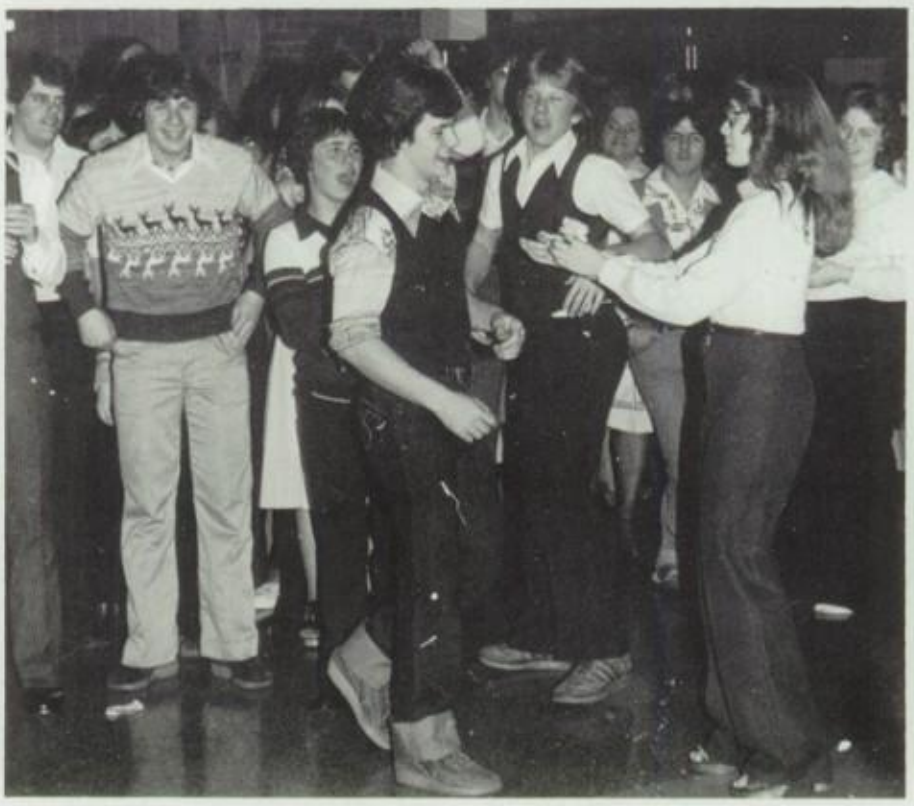
A large turnout was the result of the hard work put forth by Myra Franke and Michelle Ort for the Bloodmobile visit.





AND WHILE THEY'RE CLOSING IT DOWN

"It doesn't matter anyway . . ."

"What has it done for me?"

To many, student council may seem like a trivial aspect of school that doesn't really affect students. Maybe it's true, student council doesn't affect students, but it has potential. The administration has set up a government for the students that allows them to organize themselves, the rest if left to them. With the power of organization they can communicate with anyone, accomplish anything. The student body has not yet discovered the force a unified cry can carry.

This past year, student council has adopted a child, arranged for a blood mobile visit, sponsored dances, and founded Wayne's first radio station, WYNE. Many things were tried, and though not all were successful, trying is what student council is all about.

The March of Dimes Tennis tournament, WYNE, the Smoking Lounge for Student Smokers campaign and the Christmas canned food drive for the needy failed due to apathy. WYNE will continue, as will many of the above activities, but nothing is secure until secured by student participation.

WE'RE GONNA OPEN IT UP

One of the reasons student council was better was because more people were experienced. There was more leadership. They were ready to go from the start, they knew what they wanted and tried hard to get things done. Many times they did.

Toward the end of the year student council became more out spoken on issues which they considered to have true substance. This sometimes put them at odds with the administration, but to the credit of both, each side gave in a little. The administration really listened to student grievances, and student council became less strident in its demands.

Yet problems still remain. Student Council President Molly Hagan said, "For student council to be more effective, the administration needs to view student council seriously and not just as a body that decides upon decorations for Christmas and Homecoming." Junior Rep. Rodney Stringfellow explained what happened when he said, "What student council tried to do was have a better rapport with administration and more student body participation." Mr. Davis agrees. In fact, next year he is planning to bridge the gap by planning regularly scheduled meetings with the student council to explain policy and hear complaints. For an organization that "doesn't really affect students," student council seems to have done quite well. It is now up to the new student council, and the students themselves, to keep moving ahead.

Seniors Molly Hagan and Erika Hoham discuss the many possibilities for decorating the commons.

The Class of '79's gift to Wayne was the touch of Christmas. They gave complete tree decorations and a huge wreath.

Page back through the grey, torn pages of your mind; stroll through the cold, dismal catacombs of your cerebrum — back, back, back to Christmas '78. You say you were trying to forget? Well, if we don't write something here there will be approximately 2 inches of white space staring at you. Satisfied? O.K., we'll continue.

Do you remember the Seniors? You know, the people who put up the Christmas tree and made the ornaments. Yes, they made those themselves . . . the stars, boots, horses . . . it's rumored the Seniors have a cowboy fetish. Bet you thought they were just tall elves.

The Juniors successfully defeated the Seniors, Sophs and Freshmen to win the Deck the Halls competition for their realistic, true to life rendition of "Christmas packages flying berserk on the Cafeteria ceiling." C'mon Juniors, let's come up with something original next year, O.K.?

While we're on the subject of Santa's Workshop, it would only be fair to mention the Freshmen's efforts in the cafeteria hall . . . now that we've mentioned it, we'll proceed.

Before you stuff these little memories back into your head, here are a few little things we feel require a brief mention. Remember the Christmas breakfast and greasy sausage, the torched Christmas breakfast banner, the Christmas Semi-formal? O.K. but try to forget "Le Freak."

Most went willingly, but Matt Werling needs to be held, kicking and screaming, in place.

The Seniors did it up in style as their skit was truly Santa's Folly in every sense of the word.

. . . and the band played on as their contagious carols inspired the Seniors to lead a sing-a-long.

Some jobs have certain benefits as rogue Santa finds out with Gail, Julie, and Kathy Peppler.

Yes, Mike Stanton, there is a Santa Claus! Some are never too old to believe in him.

Santa has his hands full, so she holds the reins of his reindeer as his assistant elf blushes.

Those frolicking fools of Wayne were fortunate enough to have old St. Nick. Ecstatic Wayneans couldn't wait to tell the old bearded man what they wanted for Christmas. And those enterprising Juniors were selling black and white glossies of the event.

In one of the most creative pep sessions on record, the Seniors, finally finding the stamina to get out of their wheelchairs, delivered a potpourri of talking Christmas tree ornaments, reindeer, elves, and toga-clad angels with the traditional Christmas song, "Macho Man."

The thoughtful Juniors gave memorable objects of their appreciation to a handful of grateful and deserving teachers. They received such valuable trinkets such as an Eiffel Tower made of pipe cleaners and a pet amoeba on a leash, yes, those Juniors are considerate . . . and cheap.

Those happy Sophomores told a happy Christmas story, which required the equally happy pep session crowd to yell, "Merry Christmas" and "Santa Claus" at the top of their happy lungs.

The poor, poor Freshmen. Only two Freshmen out of the whole class had the nerve to get out there and make fools of themselves. It's people like this that made America great.

Afterwards the Wayneans stomped in style to disco music furnished by DB's unlimited.

For a change of pace, Santa John Andrews tells Junior Class sponser Mr. Hole what he wants for Hanukkah.

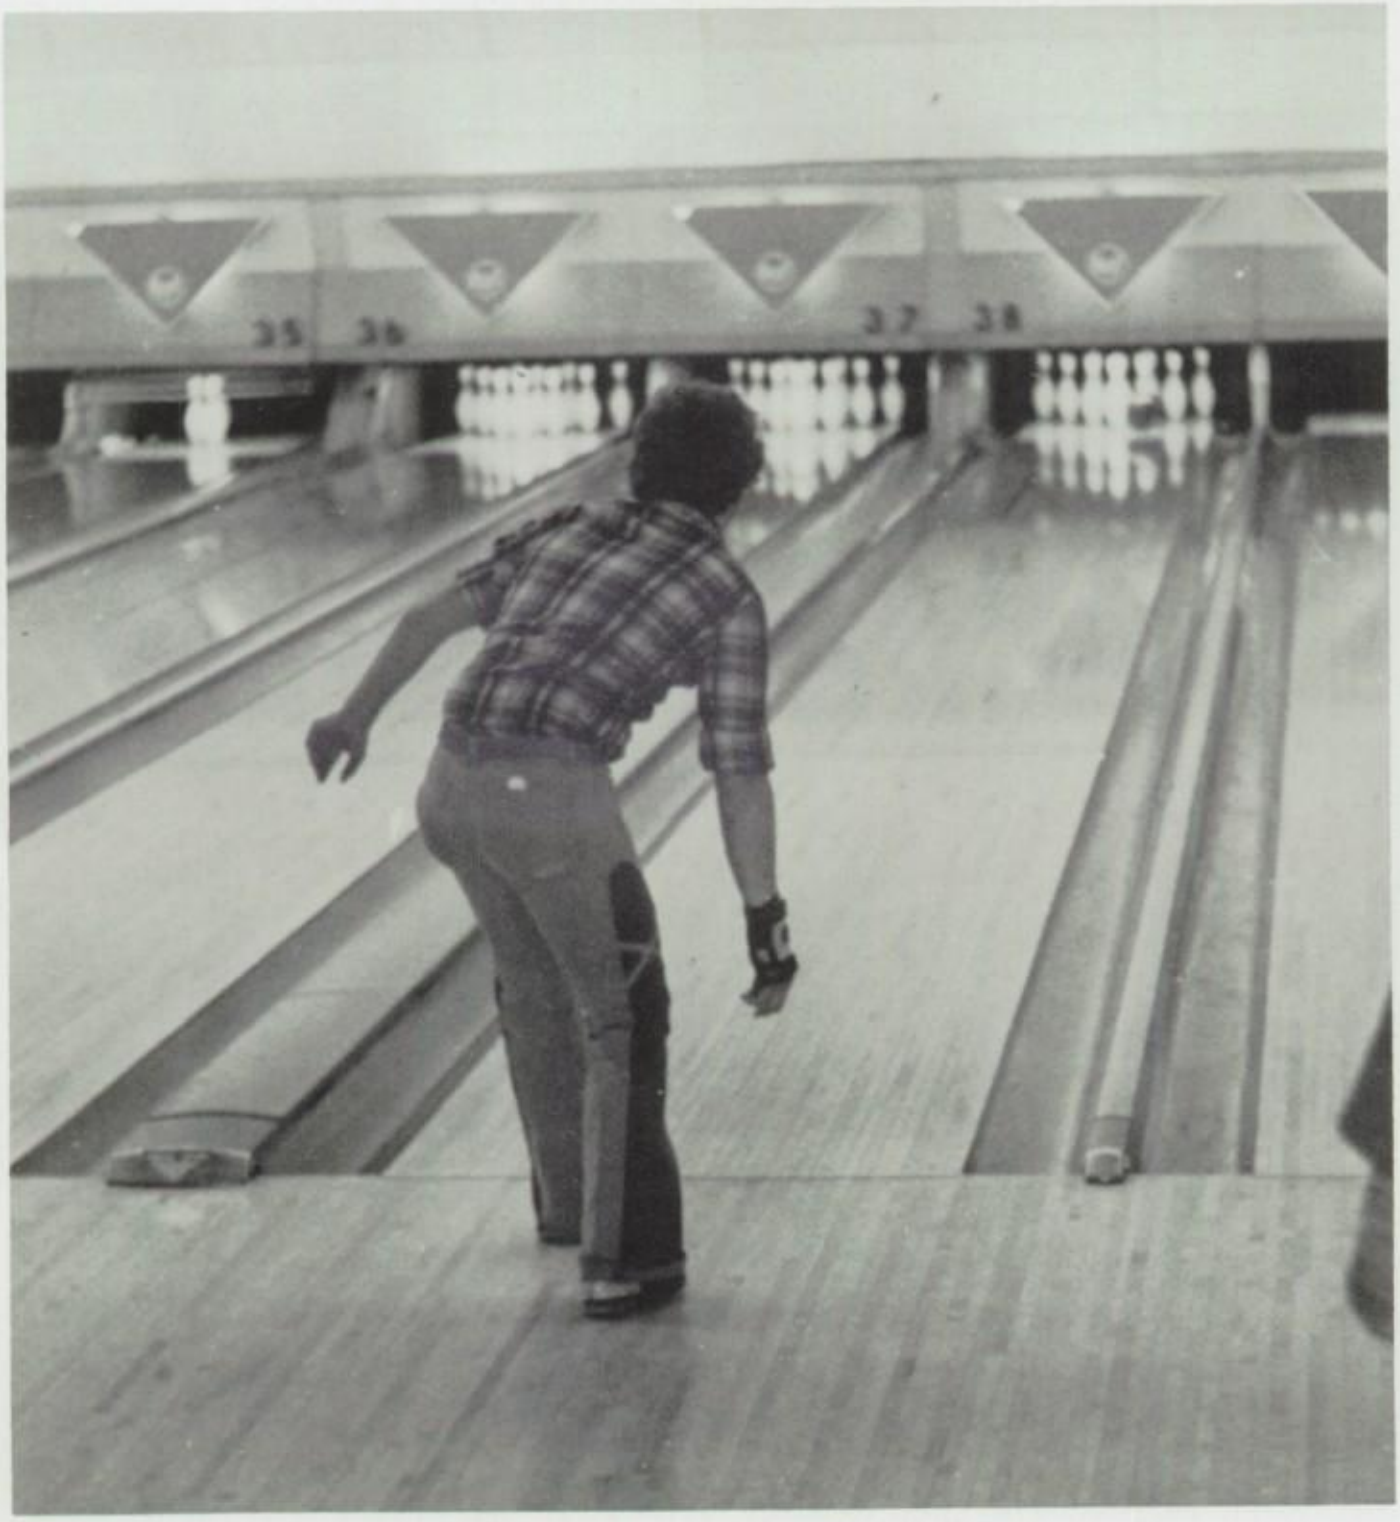
KNOCK 'EM DOWN, BOWL 'EM OVER, DO IT AGAIN!



Under the sterling leadership of Mrs. Pat McKinney, Wayne's Bowling Club enjoyed a highly successful season. High attendance figures, just under 100 members, reflected the strong student interest in the club.

With the help of Ms. Eudaley, Mr. Beerman and numerous students, Mrs. McKinney started the club successfully and maintained interest and enjoyment throughout the year.

The first season consisted of teams of four or five students each. Competition started on the second week of bowling. After 10 weeks of demanding competition, "High Times" captured the first place spot with 34 wins and 10 losses. The members of "High Times" were; Dave and John Hamrick, Chuck King, Mitch Nemeroff and Troy Miller.

The second season winner was the "Space Cadets" of Steve Borkowski, Melinda Cooper, Chris Mattes, Don Marquardt and Barry Minniefield, with 33 wins and 11 losses.

At the end of the year, a party was held for all members of both seasons. Trophies were given out and each student received a bowling towel.

Wayne joined five other city schools in starting a soccer club. Coach John Bierbaum had very little time to prepare his team, and they finished with a 2-7-1 record. Both wins were by 2-0 over Harding along with a 2-2 tie on opening day with Snider. Ashoor Odisho led all General strikers with three goals during the season.

The Lettermen held the ropes at basketball games in addition to their traditional job of escorting the Homecoming court. Jim Underwood escorted the queen, acting as president although one was not appointed.

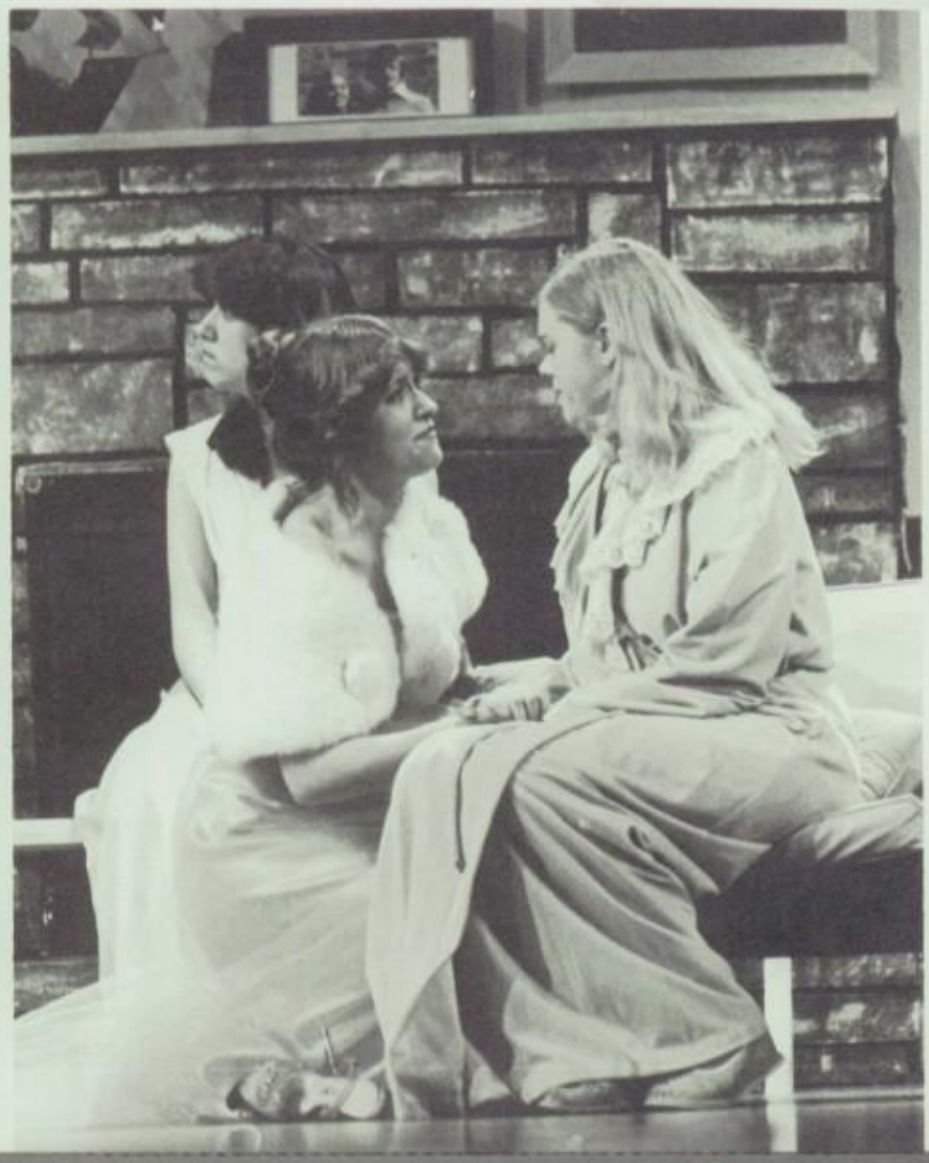
FAIR ENOUGH



For a change, the comedy was held in the spring. Fair Exchange, a suspense comedy, played to generally receptive audiences the first week in March. The play revolves around the all-American doings of some squeaky-clean honor students.

An elaborate exchange is worked out between two schools in which the top male student escorts the other school's top female student to the prom. A n'er-do-well shows up in place of the male honor student, causing all 'heck' to break loose. Dino Dirkin, an enemy of OPEC, shows up to escort Peggy Wilson, taking her instead on a spree of robbing gas stations.

A young cast did a great job making the most of the play, with Michelle Hamrick, Paul Alter and Joe Andorfer playing lead roles.

Dino's (Paul Alter) aggressive nature shows through as he sweeps Peggy off her feet in an ungentlemanly manner.

Peggy (Michelle Hamrick) tells her mother (Sandy Huber) how her Prom night became a horrible ordeal.

Masquerade aside, Dino reveals his true intentions as he threatens Steve (Joe Andorfer) and Peggy. (Michell)

At Peggy's party for Ched Armstrong, her friends discuss their thoughts on the up coming Prom.

Surprise super sleuth Diana (Pam Shookman) and her friend Carol (Amy Holston) put together the evidence.

Gerald King had everyone rolling in the aisles with his comedy routine. It wasn't just an evening of comedy either, Robin Govan performed her modern dance creation. Also dancing were the Hollywood Getdowns and the Satin Dolls.

Wayne had a wide array of singers and musicians too, such as: Judy Brewer, Karen Bibbs, Layoone Bates, Dan and Willie Edwards, Dewayne Hall, Barry Minniefield, The International P's, Kim and June Starks, Vaughn Starks and Lavern Underwood.

The audience received two special surprises. The speech "I Have a Dream," interpreted by Al Stephens, and Marla Simmons added her own special musical touch.

Memorable lines came from the evening's commentators; Tracy Dennis, Michelle Weeks, and Rodney Stringfellow. But the clincher of the evening was Shed Harrisons "You can go home now, we got your money!"

Even as tiring grandparents, memories of prom night will still cleave to the mind. Sue Andorfer, Myra Franke, and Michelle Ort made these memories through long hours and hard work.

The prom was a smashing success. The band was excellent for dancing and the decorations were masterfully constructed.

Lisa Gemmill and Steve Kuntz were crowned Queen and King of the prom. They came from a court that included fellow seniors: Melinda Barfield, Gretchen Smith, Tom Smith, and Chris Lebamoff. Juniors on the court were Angie Holloway, Joel Specht, Scott Bernard, and Randy Springer.

HARD CORPS

A new group joined the ranks of Wayne's spirited rooting forces this year. The Bleacher Bums added a different dimension at home football and basketball games with their aggressive style of cheering and their intellectual spelling lessons.

The Cheerblock attempted to make their presence felt but never quite got out a good yelp.

Corps, a new addition to the band, introduced a new flare and snap to pre-game and half time shows. Miss Ault used a new marching style to replace the pom pon girls for a more colorful and precise presentation. Their half time routines made the fans hesitate before hitting the concession stand.

"IN GOOD CHEER"

It might be chauvinistic, but, nevertheless, true to say that a cheerleader saves many games from Dull-City. When the eyelids get heavy and all interest in what down it is, or how many team fouls this half, just look at a cheerleader — that'll perk you up. The sponsor of this hard working group was Mrs. McDanell, whose spunk and spirit inspired them.

The life of a cheerleader is not all wine and roses. Between having to deal with the herd mentality of the crowd, the girls have to rush to work, to practice, to all the games, to homework, to everywhere at once. With all this rushing around, there isn't much time to be "Everybody's pal", hence some common cheerleader stereotypes.

In just two short seasons, Wayne's football coach, Bill Griffith, changed an average conference team into a city power. The 1979 team ended the year as South Division champs with their best record ever of 6-4. The General team bolted to a pair of wins to begin the year as the offense averaged four touchdowns per game. The defense, meanwhile, held opponents away from the goal line.

As usual Wayne lost their homecoming game, extending their winless streak in this ritual to eight contests. This time the foe was South Side, and the loss put them even in the SAC. But uncharacteristically, the Generals put together consecutive conference victories over Elmhurst, Luers, and Harding. The last one a 41-0 trouncing.

When the season closed Elmhurst and Wayne were deadlocked at 4-2, Wayne was given the nod because of its early season decision over the Trojans.

In the city championship game against state-ranked Bishop Dwenger, who had beaten Wayne convincingly earlier in the season, Dwenger's and Wayne's defenses were put to the test in a bitter struggle. The Saints could only score once, in the first half, but held Griffith's squad scoreless throughout the game. Wayne gained some consolation as Dwenger made their way to the state finals, beating supposedly superior teams by far greater margins.

During the entire campaign, the Generals' defense held opponents to a nine point per game average while the offense averaged a sizeable sixteen, almost all of those points coming on the ground as Wayne rarely took to the air. Coach Griffith emphasized a running attack in his game plan, using the speed and agility of his fine backfield to their fullest potential. The defensive teamwork and swarm type tackling added to the offense making Wayne's football team a major threat in 1978.

As Bob Bieto (25) stands guard, Quarterback Neal Schoenle (11) tries to unload the ball.

Varsity football coach Bill Griffith must be looking forward to another prosperous season, as this year's reserve team produced seven wins while never once losing.

The squad's record was impressive despite losing starting quarterback Andy Lebamoff and fullback Greg Trainer to the varsity level. Soph. Jeff Burton took over the signal calling and Eric Chapman filled in for Trainer as the leading rusher.

But the mainstay of the successful season was a defense that flustered opponents and caused turnovers to aid the offense.

Scott Steinforth and Dave Kruse shut down the opposition up front, often aided by Dan Edwards and Jeff Putt, as safety Eddie Cannon picked off numerous alien passes in the defensive backfield.

The amazing part of the season was the ability of Coaches Mendenhall and Bierbaum to keep the players performing as a team despite common absences due to injury at the varsity level.

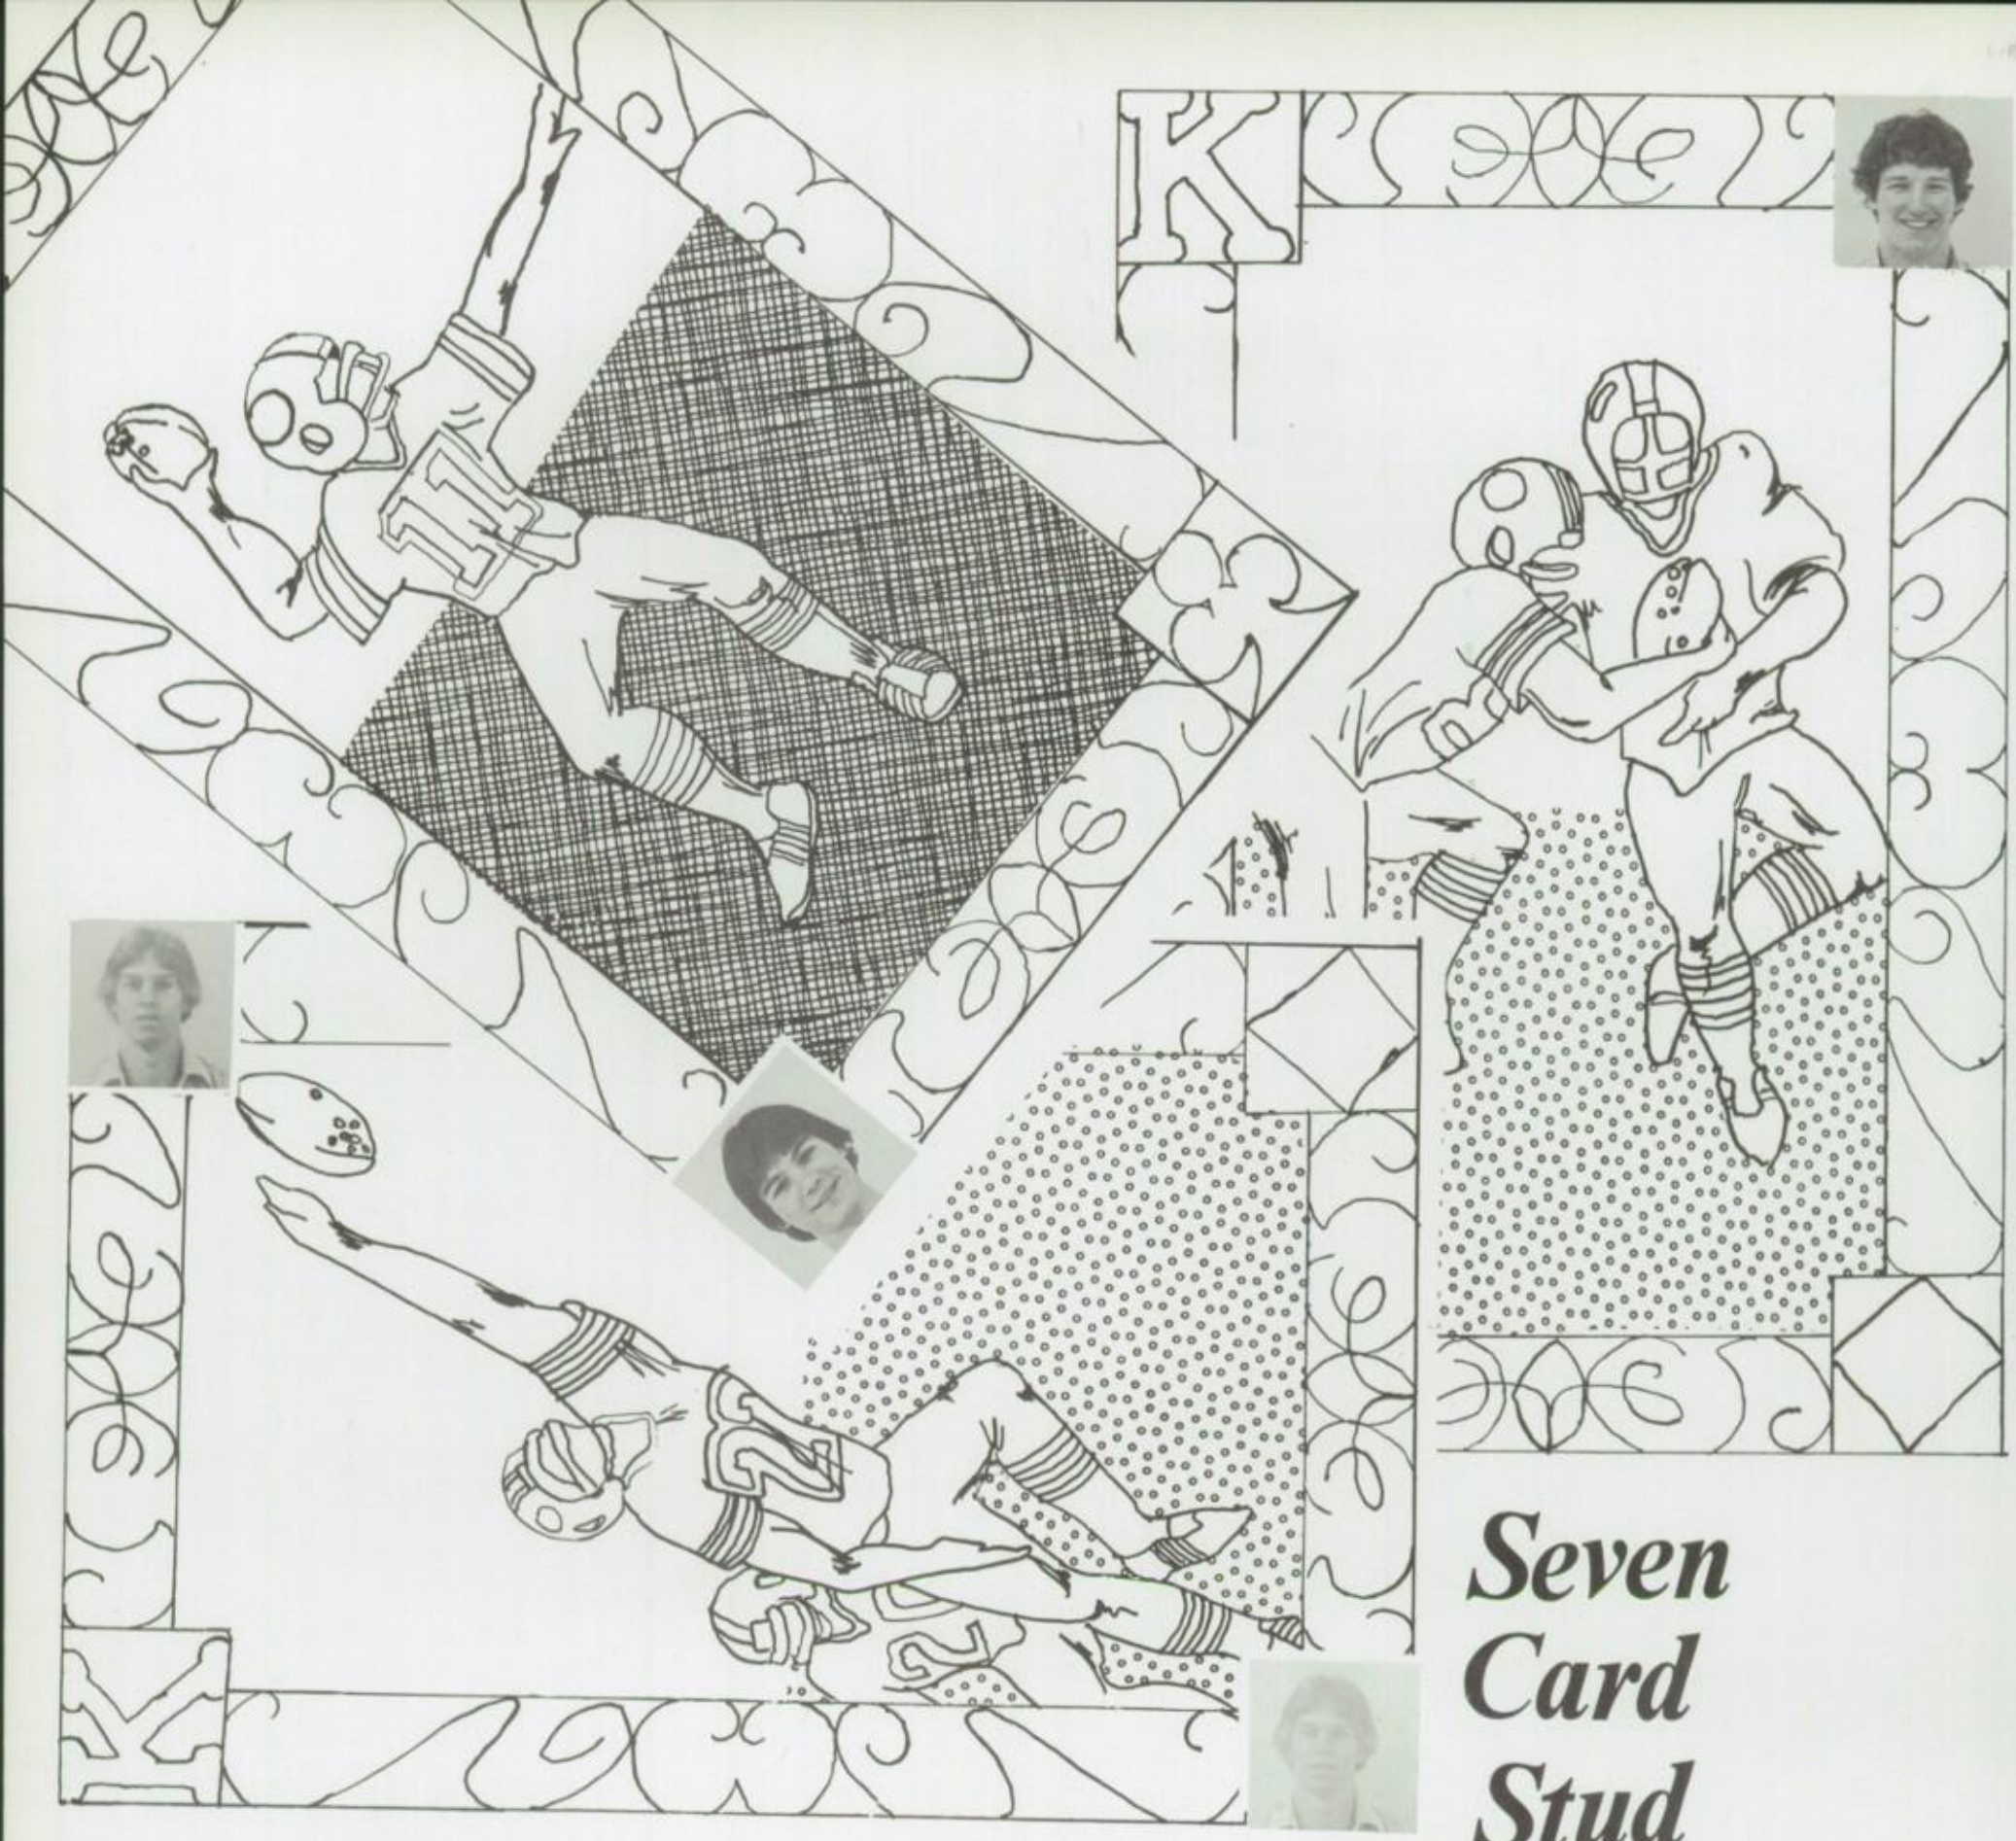
Another proof of Wayne's deptb was the success of the Freshman football team. A seemingly new tradition that developed was passed on to the frosh team as an excellent defense sparked the way. Though to be sure, the young Generals were not without an offense too. In two games they combined for a hundred points while limiting opponents to only a pair of touchdowns.

With an explosive backfield captained by quarterback John Warren, fullback Terry Clark, and halfback Vincent Jones, the Generals were able to cut quickly and find the openings they needed due to their team's lack of size.

Paul Alter and Brian Konger were defensive standouts for a squad that never allowed an opponent over a touchdown a game. Though Coach Perkins felt the team did not reach their full potential, they played well enough to post a winning record and lengthen a victorious tradition at Wayne.

The reserve team's leading ground gainer, Eric Chapman, takes the handoff as the defense approaches.

Quarterback Andy Lebamoff cocks his arm, ready to throw, as he eyes the receiver downfield.



Seven Card Stud

Wayne's varsity football team held the cards of success this year and put them together to form a winning combination. With defensive standouts capable of shutting down an opponent, and an often explosive offense, the Generals kept pace with the city leaders throughout the season.

Second-year quarterback Neal Schoenle led the attack by passing for over 400 yards and three touchdowns. Schoenle also ran for seven score as one of the best running quarterbacks in the city.

Complementing Neal in the backfield was Bob Beito, who amassed 651 yards and ten touchdowns on the ground to keep him in the thick of the city scoring title all year. Beito's three td. explosion against North Side earned him Player of the Week honors and later a spot on the South Division all-star team.

But the main force in the Generals drive to the top had to be their defense. The Wright brothers, with Mark on the line and Kevin as middle linebackers, were solid threats throughout the season. Junior Kevin led the team in the tackles and assists, tacking on three fumble recoveries for good measure. Senior Mark cut down end runs and as the place-kicker completed a perfect eighteen in as many attempts.

One of Wayne's strong men, Greg Causey, piled up fifty tackles, 31 assists, and three fumble recoveries to become the only player named to the all-SAC team.

Phil Talarico proved invaluable by leading the city in punting with a remarkable 36.6′ average, almost three yds. longer than anyone else in the city. He also picked off two interceptions to go with his many tackles.

Wayne's defense was not limited to front line success. Jim Dick amassed over fifty tackles as one of the best defensive backs in the city. His actions on the field earned him a spot on the South Division all-star team.

Even though the Generals excelled in turning out superb individual performances, their most vital asset was their teamwork in their best season ever.

IT'S DOWNHILL FROM HERE

Wayne's varsity cross country team finished with a 17-1 record and a fifth place at sectionals, both for the second year in a row. The season was highlighted with a second place finish at the SAC meet. Wayne was predicted to finish fifth, but with a great team effort was runnerup only to Snider, the second rated team in the state.

In their first dual meet the Generals fell to their only defeat as South Side upended Wayne 24-33, while the Generals beat Marion 17-44. Wayne ran perfectly throughout their next eleven meets winning all of them up to the SAC. This included a 26-32 triumph over Northrop, the first time in Wayne's history that they've beaten the Bruins.

At the SAC meet Wayne displayed the group running that was the key to their success all year long. Tom Miller led the way with an eleventh place, Mike Hunkler was twelfth, Marc Schmidt thirteenth, Kent Bailey sixteenth, and Kenny Thomas eighteenth. The top fifteen finishers were placed on the all SAC team.

At sectionals Wayne again came close with a fifth place out of twenty-two teams. The top four advanced to regionals. The next three teams in front of Wayne, had been beaten by the Generals two weeks earlier at the SAC meet.

Mike Hunkler was Wayne's number one man all of the season placing first on the team in three fourths of the meets, and was the individual winner in five of them. He also tied the senior and school record with a clocking of 12:22.

Kent Baily took team honors a couple of times and was on Hunkler's heels. He missed being all SAC by one place.

Tom Miller was the first man in for Wayne with eleventh place at the SAC. Along with Baily he shared the number two man's position for the majority of the season.

Marc Schmidt also was at his best at the city meet where he finished thirteenth to become a part of the all-city squad.

Freshman Kenny Thomas also kept close and provided for a strong fifth man for the team. He came on to be Wayne's number one man at the sectional meet.

The final two varsity positions were filled by sophomores Loren Bunnel and Tom Adams. Bunnel placed among the top individuals at many meets. Adams gave the team a big lift at sectionals.

Marc Schmidt, a valuable three year member of the team, leads an Archer opponent into the chute.

RUN FOR DAYLIGHT

Wayne's reserve harriers finished their regular season with a 14-3 record and a big victory in the freshman-sophomore race at Manchester.

In their first meet, the reserves were defeated by South Side while beating Marion. Next they easily handled Columbia City and Harding as Mark Holbrook took individual honors. Then the Generals upended Northrop, who had downed them for Wayne's second loss. Phil Bozarth led the victory over Bluffton in a time better than their top varsity runner.

Bozarth, who was Wayne's number one reserve, led the way at the city SAC meet as the Generals took third. He also managed to compete in some varsity meets.

Mark Holbrook took a fifteenth place in the SAC race, while Kurt Finton, David Wilson, and Mark Snyder all placed in the top thirty. Wayne actually tied for third, but their sixth man, Cornell Graham, beat South Side's sixth runner to give Wayne the better showing.

At the Manchester Invitational the General harriers were victorious in the frosh-soph race paced by individual champion Kenny Thomas in an excellent time of 12:39. Tom Adams placed seventh, Loren Bunnell eighth, and Bozarth came in fifteenth to help.

With the end of the race in sight Phil Bozarth gives an extra burst of speed.

The determination visible on Mark Snyder's visage tells a tale all its own.

Grueling cross country courses take their toll, this is exemplified by Cornell Graham's expression.

`Noble´ Prize

A most important facet of the game, team support, is evident on the faces of these teammates as they cheer.

Beth Doehrman shows fierce concentration and determination as she serves for another point.

The Wayne volleyball team came into the 1978 season with some proven talent, but the team's future was questionable because many positions were unfilled. They turned out to be a typically tough General squad, winning 23 of 28 matches and garnering a sectional championship.

The girls dropped their first match to Norwell before going on a tear. They showed great clutch play in running off a nine game winning streak, with six victories going down to a third and deciding game. The streak included wins over strong Leo, Bellmont, and Carroll squads by taking the close games despite being beaten by more than ten in an earlier game.

As the SAc schedule started, the Generals gained consistent play, but began to lose the three game matches. Wayne's last three game losses were to SAC foes as they finished third in the conference.

The one and two teams in the SAC, Harding and Bishop Dwenger, took close wins away from Wayne. The remainder of the year, Wayne played excellently, winning 9 of 10, letting down only in a disappointing loss to Elmhurst.

Three players in their second year on the varsity team, Lori Noble, Beth Doehrman, and Joannie Zimmerman, led Wayne all year. All three were selected to the All-SAC team and Doehrman was also honorable mention All-Area. In addition, Tammi Pasko, Debbie Holloway, Linda Weber, and Kelly Enkoff were valuable during the course of the year.

The power play of the Generals was the main factor in successfully defending their sectional title. Both of the first two matches went three sets before Wayne recorded their second win of the season over New Haven and Luers. In the title clash, Wayne avenged one of their SAC losses by demolishing Harding, 15-11, 15-5. The next week, the case was reversed as the Bellmont Braves avenged an early season loss by taking two straight from the Generals. It was still a very successful season for Sue Jordan's squad.

With the battle won, and victory in their grasp, Linda Weber, Julie Peppler, and Beth Doehrman celebrate.

TED & TOM &JIM & JAY &JOHAN &

Coach John Sawyer and the boys' tennis team seem to have found the recipe for success and stuck with it for the second consecutive year and another 12-5 season.

Soph. Ted Johnston was the top player for the netmen in both status and record. At the No. 1 singles position, Johnston lost only three times in seventeen matches. Two of those losses coming to nationally ranked players, the other in a grueling three set regional match.

Singles seemed to agree with Junior Jay Goldner, who ended the year with the same record as the team in his first season at singles. During the season, his marathon victory over his Bluffton adversary provided the necessary margin to hand the Generals their seventh straight win.

One player who will be sorely missed is Tom Smith. His over thirty triumphs in his three years at the third singles spot led Wayne to innumerable victories.

The most vital person over the years had to be doubles player Jim Underwood, who set a Wayne record for doubles wins, though he played with three different partners and suffered many injuries.

In the field of foreign relations, a new bilateral detente was formed when Jim teamed up with Swedish exchange student Johan Hofvander to give them a brilliant mark of 13-4. They performed well enough to earn a spot on the all-area team, and gained a victory over the Marion Invitational champs, often regarded the best in the state, in regional play.

Four players comprised the second doubles team that finished the season just below par at 8-9. Senior Steve Kuntz completed the year playing with two different partners, as did junior Dave Kohrman with freshman Mike Lester, who got in a varsity match after playing all of the year on the reserve level, and Bruce Crist, who started the season on the varsity squad.

The reserve team also had their successes as they struggled to prove themselves to Coach Sawyer and gain a varsity spot.

Lester and Crist played singles throughout the year while Gary Hiatt, Doug Klopfenstein, Brian Rider, and Rick Reed switched back and forth from singles and doubles competition.

working for the big time

Don Shaidnagle, coach of the freshman girls' volleyball team, had the difficult task of shaping a team together in a short time and teach them the fundamentals.

Though the team record of 2-5 wasn't awesome, the girls did manage to get some first hand experience that will help them in later years.

Three of the losses came by a three game match, all of these coming at the end of the year when the girls began to close the gap between them and their foes.

No coach likes to think of a year as a building season, but to have successful teams you occasionally have to build experience and take some losses. Though coach Will Doehrman may not have planned so many losses at the beginning of the season, a group of talented underclassmen began to turn in some fine performances late in the going.

The General's biggest problem throughout the year was their height, or lack of it. Wayne was one of the smallest teams in the area. Greg Causey and Shead Harrison, Wayne's big men underneath, managed to play evenly with their opponents though nearly always giving away several inches.

Height did not seem to faze Doehrman's roundballers at the outset when they were victorious in their first two contests, losing a close game to defending and eventual state champion Muncie Central. Their momentum was brought to a screeching halt when SAC rival South Side demolished Wayne 67-34, a varsity record for low scoring.

After splitting two games, the Generals were the victims of a disheartening seven game losing streak, including the entire month of January. Six of those losses were to SAC opponents before the skein was broken with a triumph over winless Bishop Luers. Wayne did not fair much better for the remainder of the year, coming out on top only twice in seve decisions before the start of sectional play.

The Generals drew a bye in the first round of sectionals before battling highly regarded Concordia, who had whitewashed Wayne twice during the season. Coach Doehrman instilled some life in his sagging team for the contest, and it showed as his team kept pace with the Cadets in the early going. Then an outburst by the enemy killed Wayne's upset bid, and they were finally done in by their own miscues, 58-46.

Senior Greg Causey pulled down an average of eight caroms a game and denied opponents shots underneath the basket while contributing ten points of offensive power per game. Shead Harrison picked off over a hundred rebounds and led the team in shooting from the field. Doehrman was fortunate to have an excellent ball handler in Bryan Chapman, whose job it was to control the ball in key situations. Chapman also chipped in nine points a game and was Wayne's top shooter from the charity stripe.

Foreign exchange student Johan Hofvander, Senior Tom Smith, and junior Kevin Wright proved valuable in dire situations, coming off the bench to defuse a threat or ignite the offense. Eric Stoops and Daymond Whitt were relief for Wayne's big men when they were placed on the front line.

The General's received much support from the underclass as well. Sophomores Kendrick Boyd and Dric Chapman and Freshman Benny Moore proved versatile athletes, combining hot shooting and excellent ball handling technique. Boyd was a key factor throughout the year as the fourth leading scorer.

Wayne's underclass basketball program showed some impressive teams and pointed to a few stars of its own. The reserve team finished the year with a remarkable 17-3 slate, tying them for the best reserve record ever. The only JV losses came to Snider, South Side, and North Central and came early, before the squad ran off a five game winning streak to finish the year.

First year coach Murray Mendenhall III used a well-balanced attack, perfect for a team with great over-all strength. Eric Chapman, with an aggressive style of play, was the leading scorer for the Generals with almost a twelve point per game average. Eric Stoops and Daymond Whitt were the main men underneath as Stoops pulled down many rebounds giving the Generals added scoring chances, and Whitt fluctuated from strong forward to excellent outside shooter.

Jerry Bowman was the top ball handler for the team and proved invaluable in the closing moments of many games. Frosh Benny Moore and Dennis Duncan played key forward roles during the year. Moore was one of the most consistent playmakers until he was moved up to the varsity, and Duncan matured into an outstanding defensive player.

Not to be outdone, the sophomore team, likewise coached by Mendenhall, turned in an impressive season posting ten wins against only two losses.

Eric Thomas was the heart of the attack with an eleven point average and nine rebounds per game, as Wayne dominated the boards all season. Although playing in every game, Thomas still managed to shoot a superb 53% from the floor, adding thirty steals to top it off. Eddie Cannon and Brent Parker led the backcourt with Cannon popping in six points a game and a total of thirty steals for the year. Parker added another thirty steals and led the squad in assists. Scott Wilson and Dennis Duncon were big assets with timely points and passes.

The freshman team turned their season around finishing with a respectable 8-7 record, including four wins in a row after three opening defeats. Coach Don Shaidnagle instilled life into his team in the latter half of the year with a high powered offense, only to fall short in the second round of the city tourney.

Chris Adams and Vincent Jones were the scoring leaders and made one of the best backcourt duos the frosh have ever had. In the General's final victory they combined for half of the points in a 69-51 win over Shawnee.

Ken Causey and Terry Clark were also scoring threats as well as pulling down numerous caroms and playing a stingy defense. John Warren aided the front line with help from the center position.

As Vince Jones sets up underneath for a possible tip-in, John Warren takes aim on the basket.

Watching the flight of a fellow teammates shot, Eric Stoops gets position for the rebound.

DOWN

The General girls entered sectionals with a not so awesome mark of 6-9, but quickly dispelled any rumors when they demolished Harding in the opener and New Haven in round two. Wayne then shocked highly regarded Heritage by three points in a bitter defensive struggle to capture the sectional championship.

In regional competition, Wayne ran up against city rival NorthSide and knocked them off before succumbing in the final second to state contender Eastside in the finals.

Center Beth Doehrman led the way, both offensively and defensively, by leading the team in points and shooting percentage as well as grabbing almost 200 rebounds. Doehrman's heroics gave her spots on the all-SAC team, the regional team, and recognition on the all-area squad.

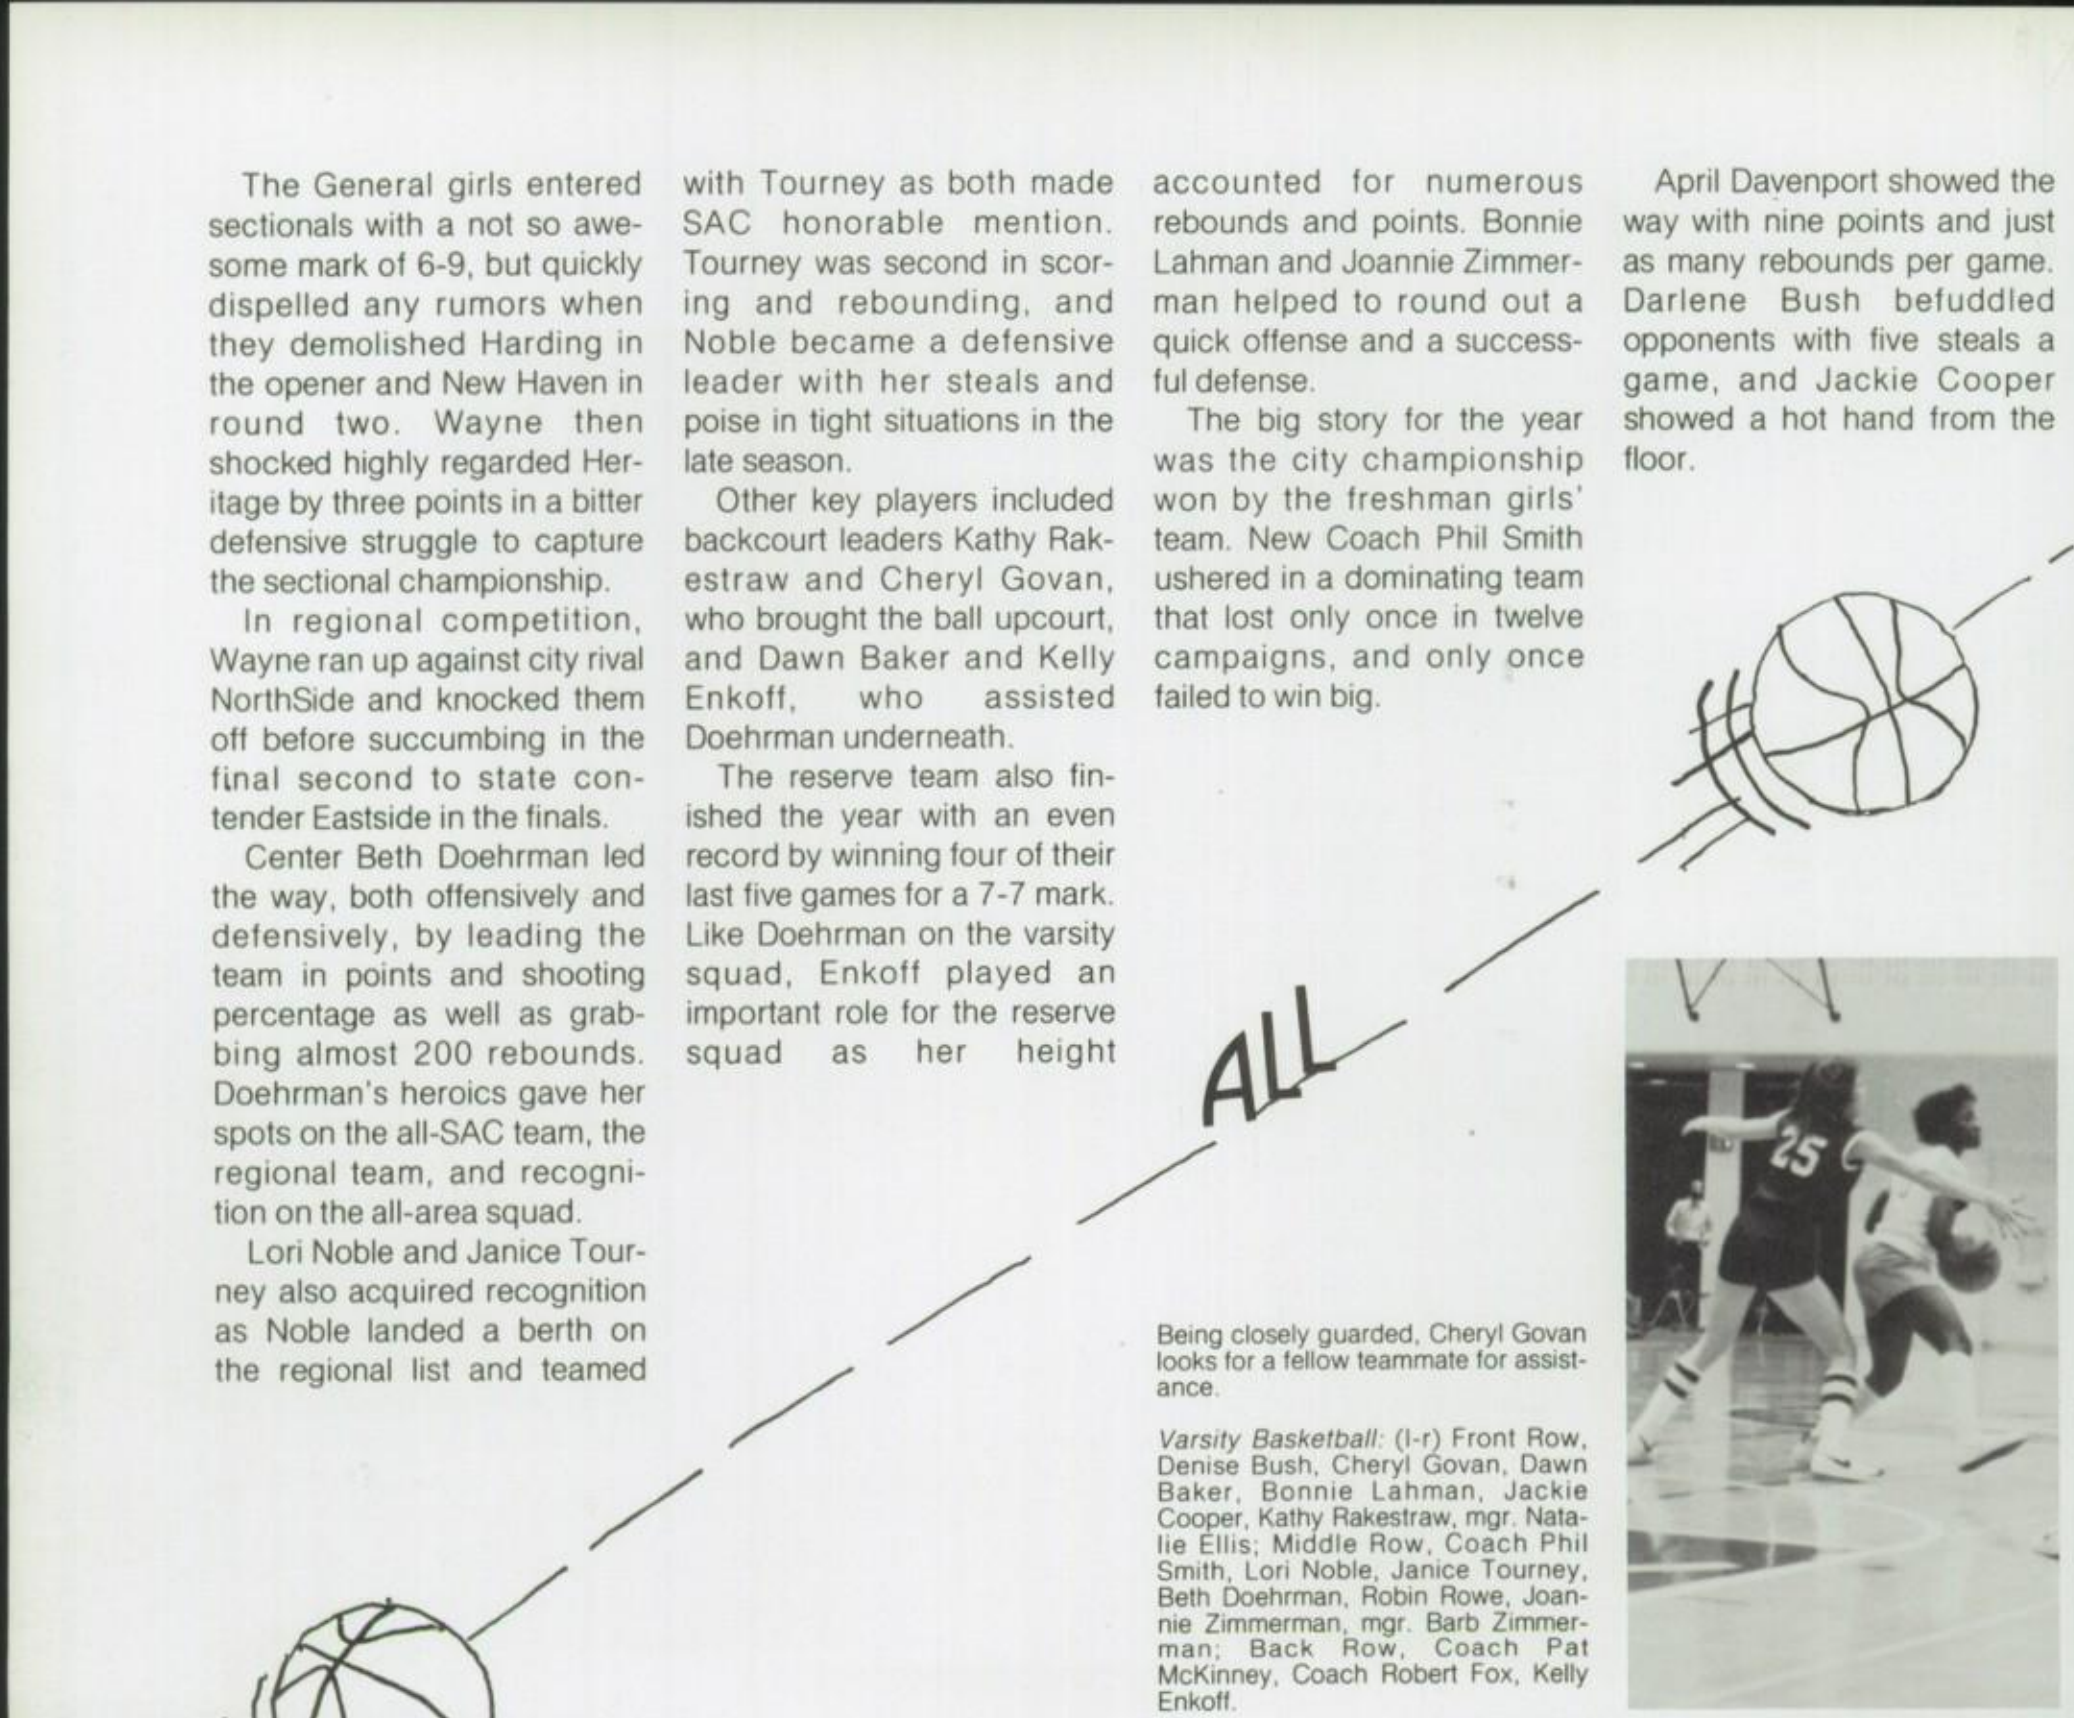
Lori Noble and Janice Tourney also acquired recognition as Noble landed a berth on the regional list and teamed with Tourney as both made SAC honorable mention. Tourney was second in scoring and rebounding, and Noble became a defensive leader with her steals and poise in tight situations in the late season.

Other key players included backcourt leaders Kathy Rakestraw and Cheryl Govan, who brought the ball upcourt, and Dawn Baker and Kelly Enkoff, who assisted Doehrman underneath.

The reserve team also finished the year with an even record by winning four of their last five games for a 7-7 mark. Like Doehrman on the varsity squad, Enkoff played an important role for the reserve squad as her height accounted for numerous rebounds and points. Bonnie Lahman and Joannie Zimmerman helped to round out a quick offense and a successful defense.

The big story for the year was the city championship won by the freshman girls' team. New Coach Phil Smith ushered in a dominating team that lost only once in twelve campaigns, and only once failed to win big.

April Davenport showed the way with nine points and just as many rebounds per game. Darlene Bush befuddled opponents with five steals a game, and Jackie Cooper showed a hot hand from the floor.



Being closely guarded, Cheryl Govan looks for a fellow teammate for assistance.

ACT ONE

The gymnastics team experienced a grey season leading to an overall record of 7-7. First year coach Sue Streeter's young team was better known for individual exploits, than for overall team effectiveness.

The optional team was led by freshman phenomenon Terri Bade and the veteran senior, Tish Moore. Terri won all-around titles in the South, Northrop, and Norwell meets, but an injured ankle sidelined her for the last three meets, all of which the team lost.

Tish Moore, Wayne's only departing senior in the two highest levels, won all-around titles at Homestead and New Haven, before topping off a successful high school career with a third in the sectional vault. Sybil Perry and Julie Anderson contributed valuable support on the optional level contributing to several victories.

The intermediate level was led by Julie Peppler and Beth Block. Julie won all-around titles at South and Northrop, with Beth as her major competition. These two, along with junior Debbie Holloway, spelled victory in several meets.

Senior Lori Armstrong and sophomore Sharon Tsiguloff starred in the beginning level. Sharon won the all-around title in the beginning level at Harding, and Lori was named

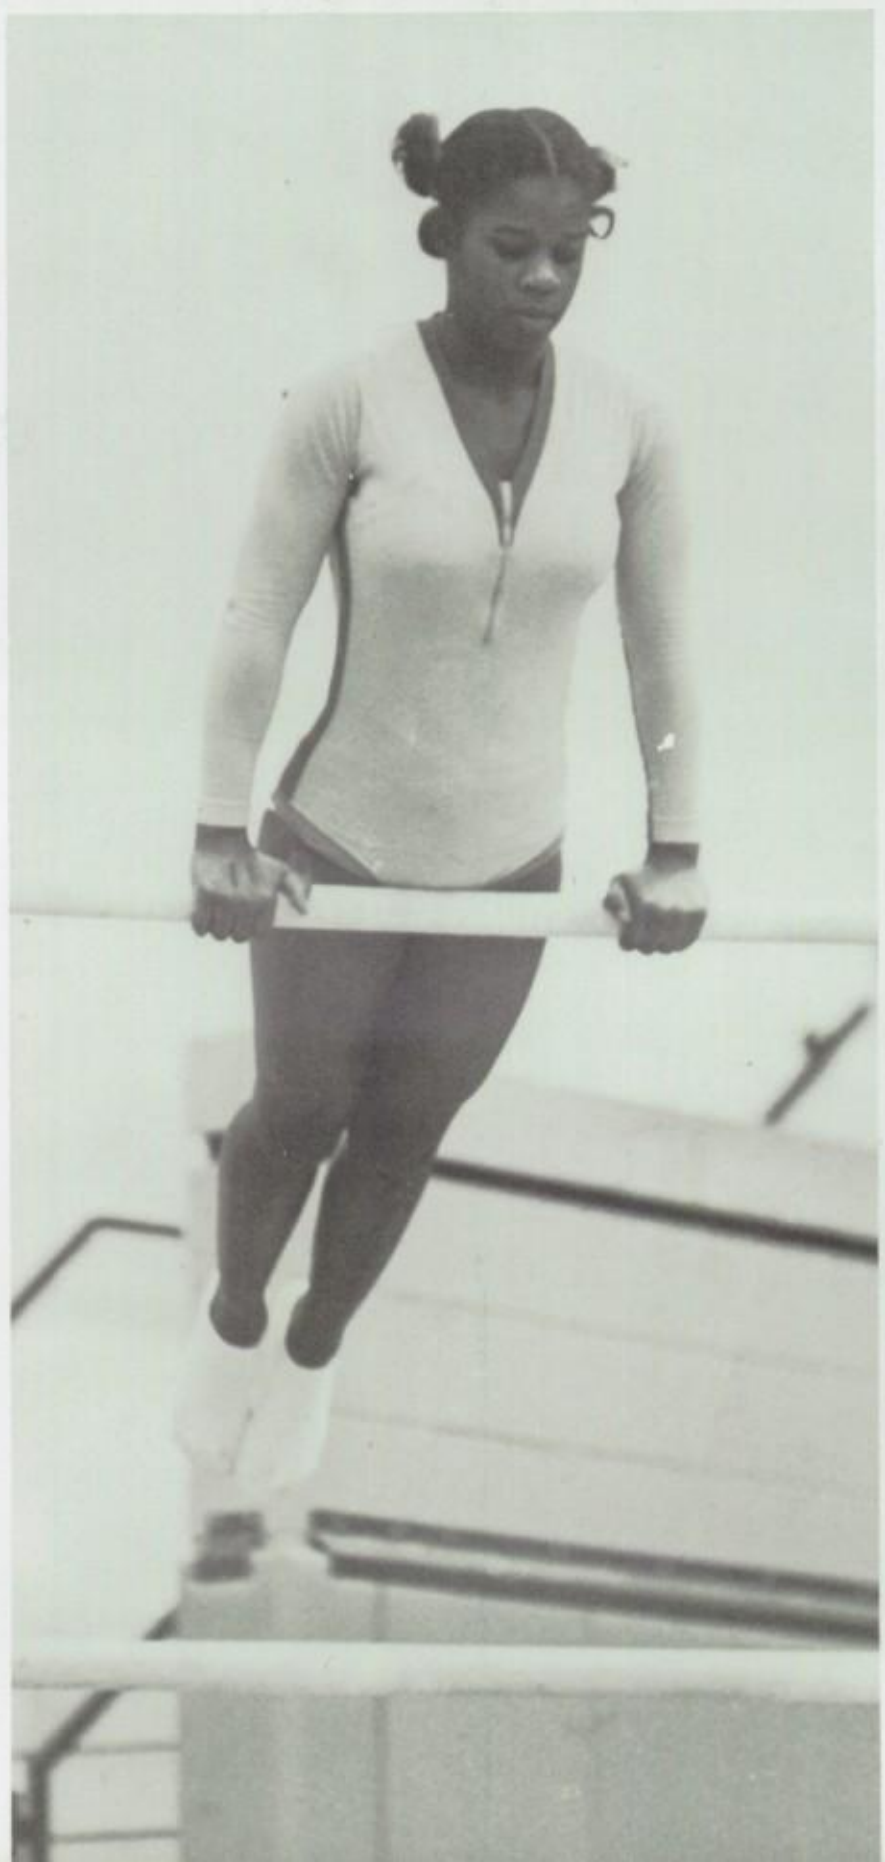
ACT TWO



Wayne's outstanding gymnast for three years of exceptional work. Also contributing to several victories were Lisa Arnold, Leanna Henderson, and Cassandra Shirmeyer.

In the sectional meet, Wayne's girls finished third overall, and Terri Bade finished third individually.

Sophomore Sybil Perri tied with Terri for a third in the uneven bars, Julie Peppler and Sharon Tsiguloff captured firsts in the intermediate level, but only optionals count in sectionals, so their efforts could not help the team.

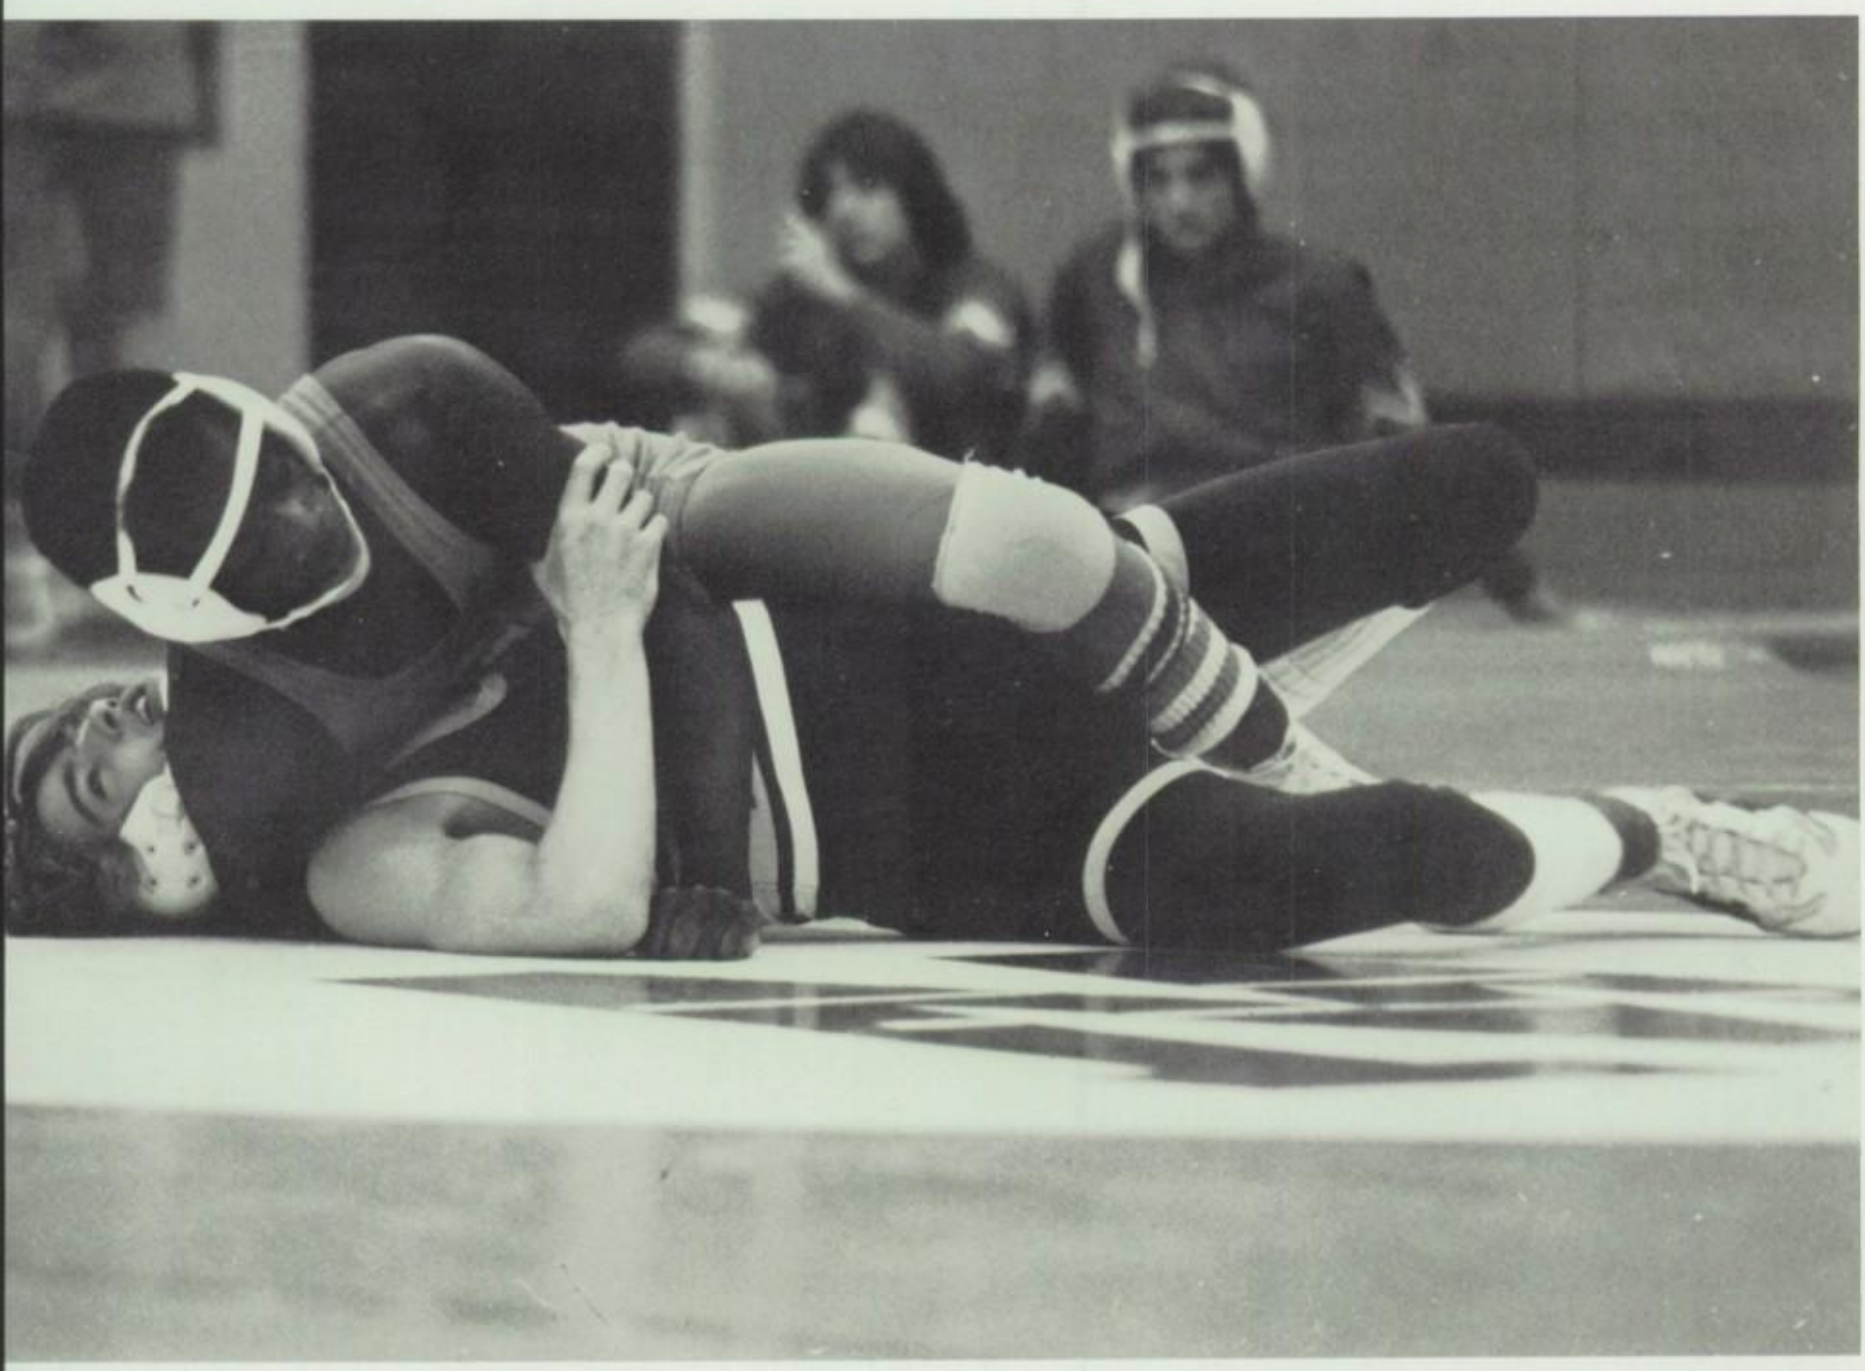
stray out of our region

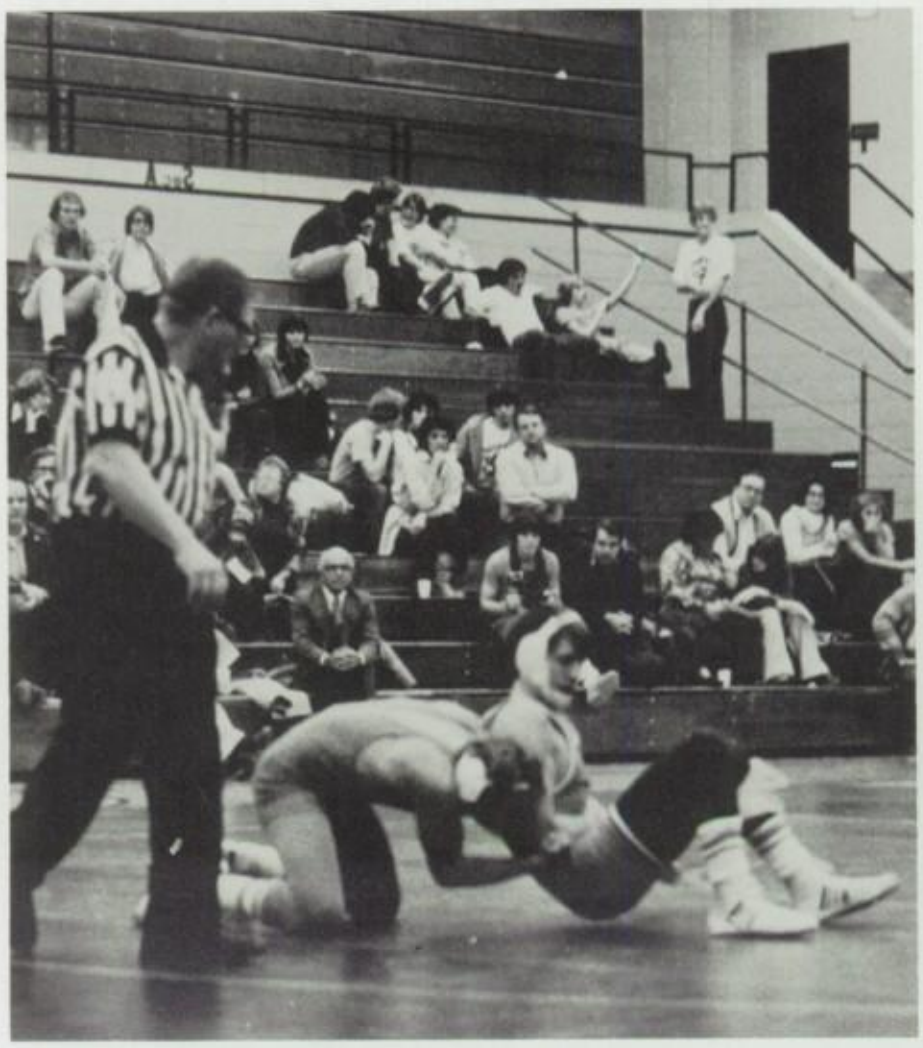
The 1979 wrestling squad continued to make firsts for Coach Lucas as his teams get better each year. The season record was 8-4, tying the most wins in one season in Coach Lucas' five years. The second place finish in the conference also tied a team best under Mr. Lucas. An important 31-27 victory over Bishop Owenger, the first in the last five years, enabled a lone second place finish in the SAC at 6-2.

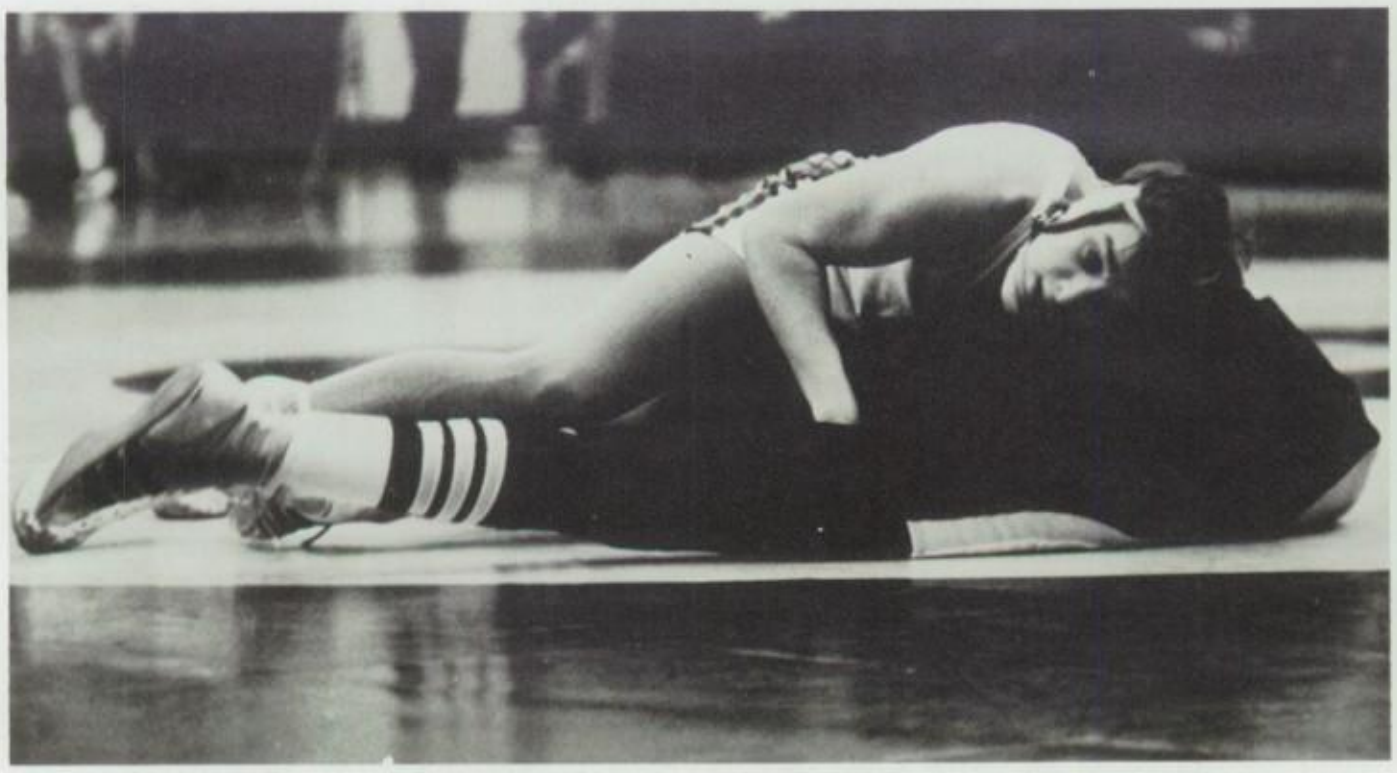
Wayne didn't fare as well as last year at the Goshen and Manchester tournaments, but turned it around in time to defend their sectional championship and capture regionals for the first time during Lucas' reign.

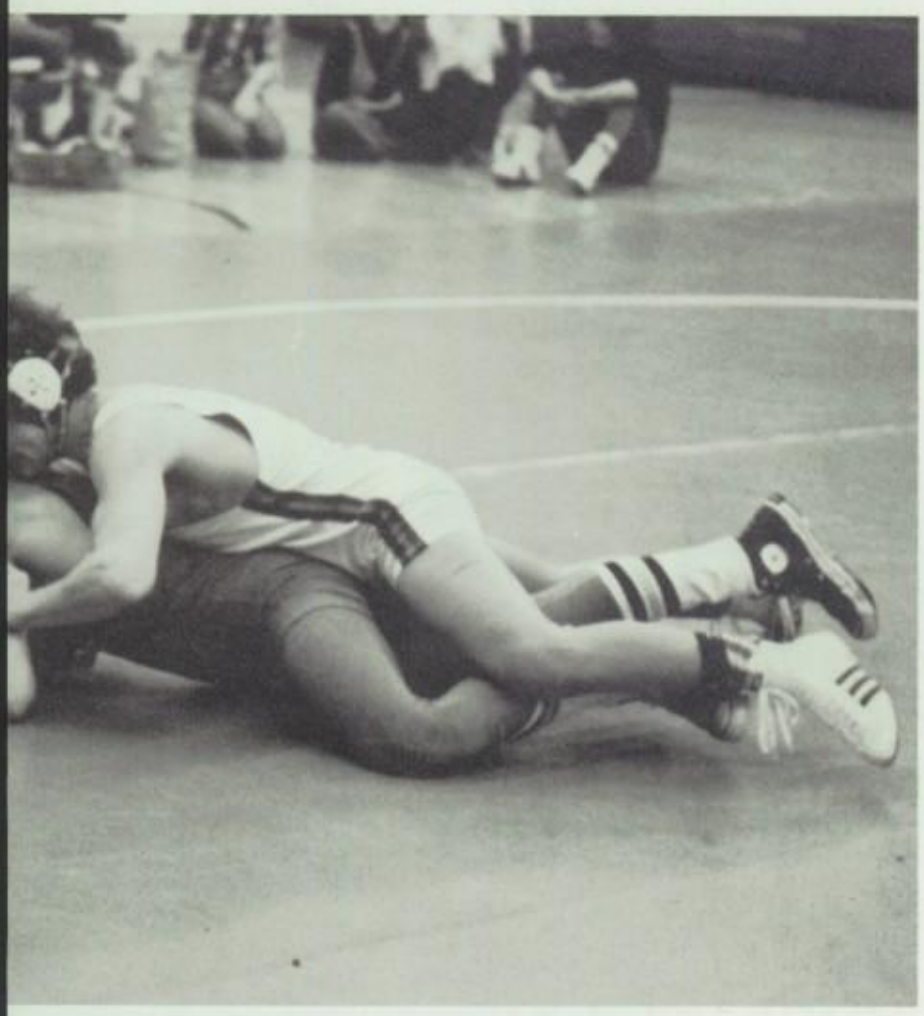
Three regional titlists and two runners-up enabled the Generals to nip Wawasee for first and avenge their second place finish to Wawasee at Goshen. Loren Bunnell and David Wilson added regional championships to their Goshen tourney titles. Derrick Brewer, who placed second behind a Wawasee grappler at Goshen, turned the tables and won the 112 pound division. No one was able to advance past the semi-state level. Brewer came close, but his second trip to state was revoked when the referee called a stalling point against him at the buzzer.

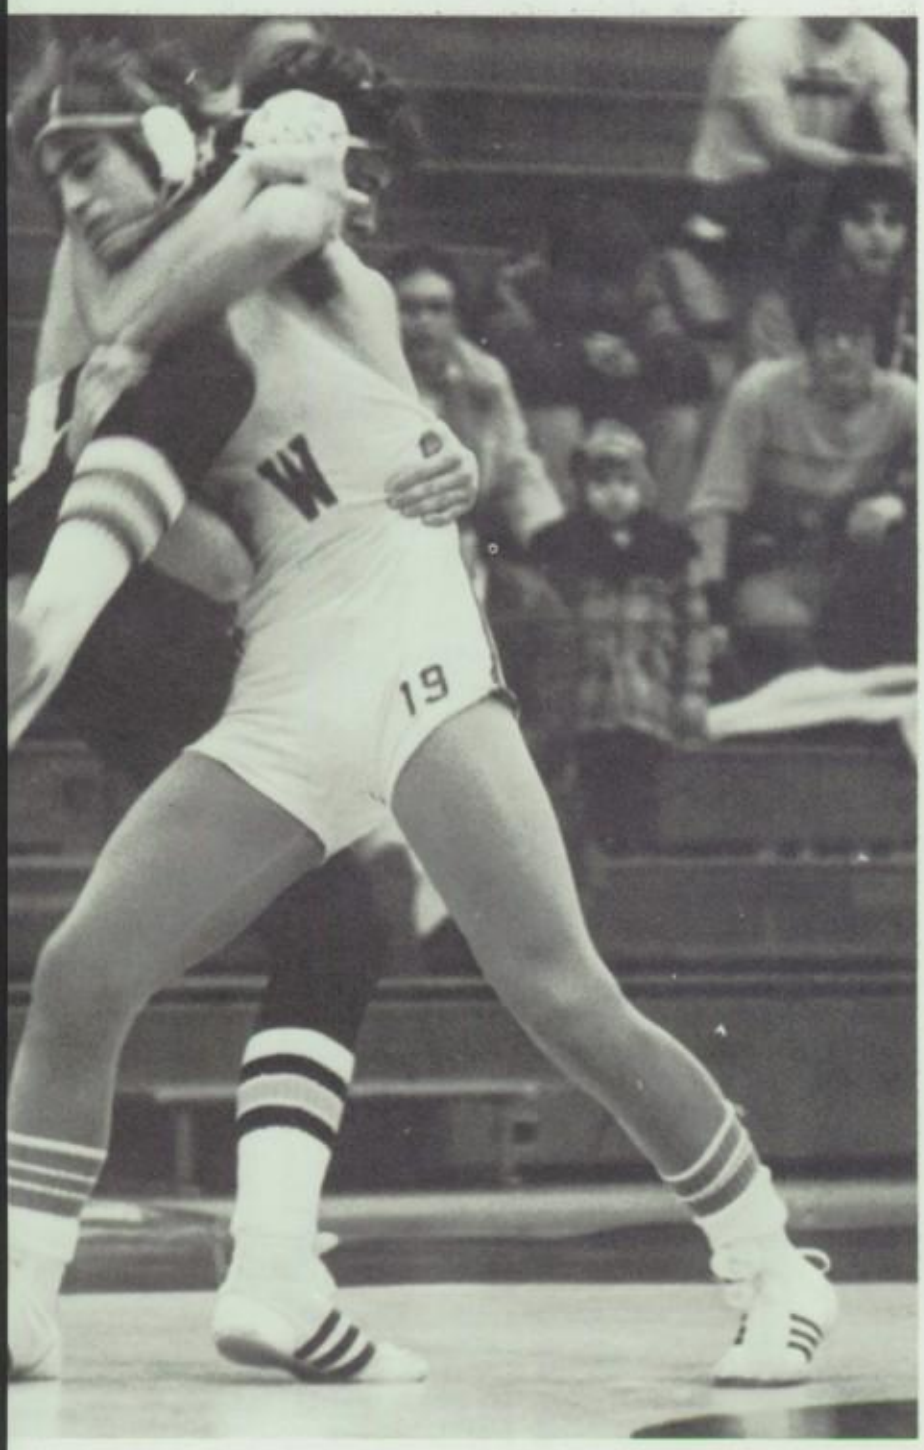
The strength in the upper weight classes made this team a strong dual meet team. Doug Hawk finished the year 21-6 at 155 with championships from Goshen, Manchester, and sectionals, and also a second in regionals. Three who were expected to be strong contenders in regionals were beaten early. Co-captains Ray Konger and Pat Nycum along with Jim Berg all won one of the two regular season tournaments. Konger won his first 11 matches, including the Manchester tournament, to earn "Wrestler of the Week" honors from the News Sentinel. He also got the Wayne Award in wrestling. Berg was 15-1 during the season and set a Wayne record by pinning one of his opponents in 17 seconds.











Lebamoff throws em off

The junior varsity wrestlers, under the instruction of Mr. Bill Ragle, had good individual seasons, but lack of depth hurt in the team scores.

The top reserve was Andy Lebamoff at 155 pounds. Andy only lost one match on reserve. Doug Schultz dropped only one decision in his contests at the 112 pound reserve spot. The strength of the reserve squad was in the middle weights with people like Terry Sorg, Richard Perry, and John Bowman.

With only five members, the freshman team ended the year at 2-2 as forfeits caused both losses. All five advanced to city where only Lonnie Bradfield emerged as champion. David Forrester was second in the 90 pound division and the rest were either third or fourth.

An attempted escape is thwarted by Jack McCartney who tries to pull his opponent back down to the mat.

Strength and perseverance are the tools used most effectively by Junior Terry Sorg as he tries to pin his foe.

Eyeing the ball all the way, Mark Wright steps into the pitch and swings away.

The baseball team was slow starting this year, losing several of their early games. But as temperatures rose, so did the Generals' fortunes, as they closed out the season with a long winning streak.

Kevin Wright was once again the team's top slugger. Wright led the team in home runs and RBI's, showed his all-around ability by hitting over 300, and was named all-city. Jim Underwood led the team in hitting and could usually be found among the top ten hitters in the city. Senior John Hamrick was versatile as a pitcher, hitter, and outfielder. Hamrick was named honorable mention to the all-city team.

Three seniors who will leave large gaps are Jim Tourney, the top pitcher this year, Jim Dick and Neal Schoenle. Another contributing factor to the diamondmen's success was Eric Chapman, who improved so much that by year's end he was one of the top pitchers in the city.

Wayne entered the sectionals on the strength of a winning streak to close out the season. The Generals advanced to the final game, but were defeated by eventual semi-staters Bishop Luers.

"Intense concentration and a powerful swing make for a long ball," says senior Jim Tourney.

All SAC selection, Kevin Wright, shows his long ball prowess that earned him his honor and team batting championship.

the thin blue line

With only 33 members for most of the year, about half of its normal size, Wayne's track team nevertheless managed to pull out a 7-4-1 record. Although they did not have the depth of the big track powers, they did a respectable job at the invitationals.

The Generals were defeated in the first meet by South Side in the midst of a steady rain, but overcame Dwenger. They avenged losses to North Side and Wabash from a year ago to move to 3-1. Because of the loss of about a dozen men, Wayne had a disappointing twelfth place finish at the North Side Relays and finished fourteenth at the Dayton Invitational. They showed a good team effort for a fifth at the SAC meet. At 4-4, Wayne finished out the season with three solid wins and a tie with Marion.

The cindermen managed a sixth in sectionals, led by sprinter David Brewer. Brewer was champion in the long jump at 22'4" and also advanced to regionals in the 100. Mike Hunkler moved on in the two-mile, while Tom Miller went to regionals in the half. Eddie Cannon scored with a fifth in the low hurdles.

The regionals were the stopping point for everyone except Brewer, who finished fourth in the long jump. Though he turned in a fine effort, he could not pick up a point at the state meet.

Brewer was Wayne's big scorer all season and placed high in the long jump, 100, and 220 all year. Eddie Cannon proved valuable when he came on late in the season to place fifth at sectionals in the low hurdles.

Captain and Wayne Award winner Mike Hunkler ran the mile and two mile most of the year and scored much needed points for the team. He led the distance men, who pulled in a lot of slack due to the lack of sprinters. Other runners that helped the effort were Tom Miller and Albert Stephens in the half, Loren Bunnell in the two mile, and Kenny Thomas in the mile. Senior Gregg Robbins won the open quarter several times and led the mile relay team.

Dan Bates carried the field events, going well over 48' in the shot and placing in the discus, falling behind only teammate Dave Stouder in several meets.

Outstanding strong man and shot putter Dan Bates strives for that few extra inches found only in that extra effort.

never have so few...

Wayne's reserve track team, affected largely by a lack of depth, had a difficult time winning because they had to constantly give away points in events where they could enter only one or two men.

Richard Perry was a prominent trackman as he placed in numerous events throughout the season. He was the reserve's best in the long jump, 100, 220, and 440; and he competed in both relays. Darrel Sanders won the open quarter several times and also anchored the mile relay team. Ron Borkowski placed in the mile all season long to be among the reserve point leaders. Eric Stoops dominated the competition in the shot put along with Dave Reith when Reith wasn't competing for the varsity.

Usually varsity runners Greg Trainer and Kenny Thomas carried the team in the reserve SAC meet. Thomas was victorious in the two mile and third in the mile. Trainer placed in the half and anchored the mile relay.

Sophomore Dean Ross puts on a final spurt to give the next runner a sizable margin.

Ron Borkowski, the reserve's premiere distance man, head down the straightaway ahead of the pack.

Straining for extra distance with good form, Eric Stoops, heaves the shotput across the field.

no energy crisis here

It was supposed to be different. The coach was new; the team was young; the experience was small.

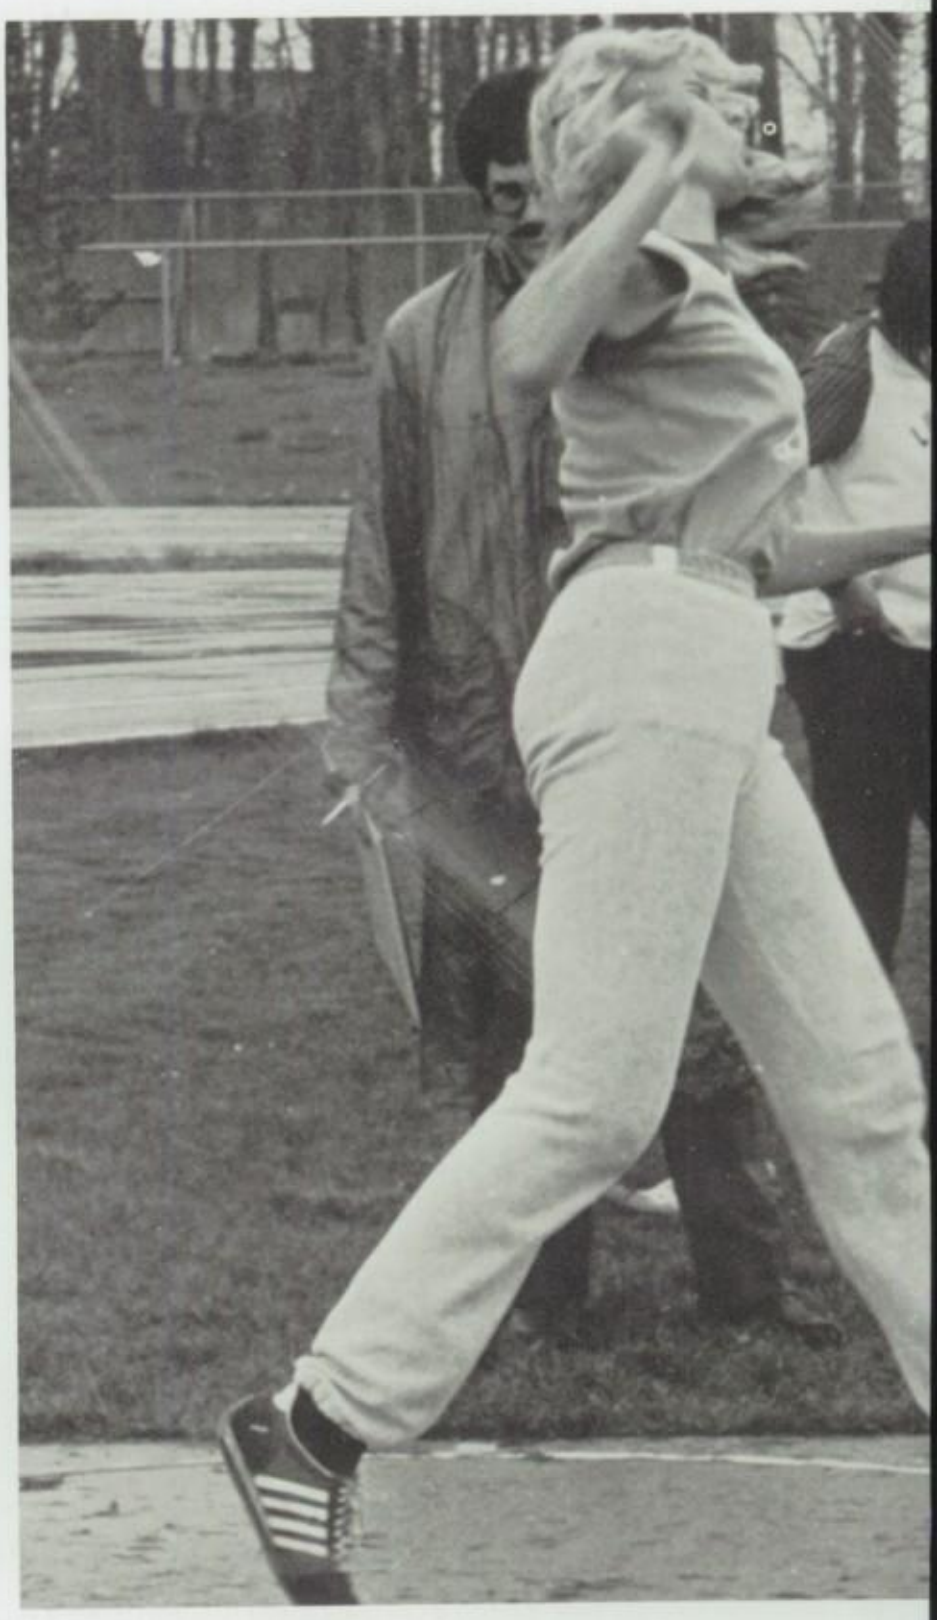
Still, they had the talent to reach the pinnacle of success. The state championship. The Wayne girls' track team accomplished this feat under first-year coach Bill Blosser.

The girls started the season by proving just how talented they were, when they swept opponents, only losing to city rival South Side once during the season and later in the SAC meet.

Though the sprints and relays were Wayne's strong point, their overall depth led them to triumph after triumph.

Beth Doehrman raised some eyebrows with her shot-put throws, as Judy Anderson and Jackie Cooper won consistent places in the long jump. Joannie Zimmerman and Debbie Hughes were successful in running the grueling mile, and Kelly Enkoff and Darlene Bush placed in the softball throw.

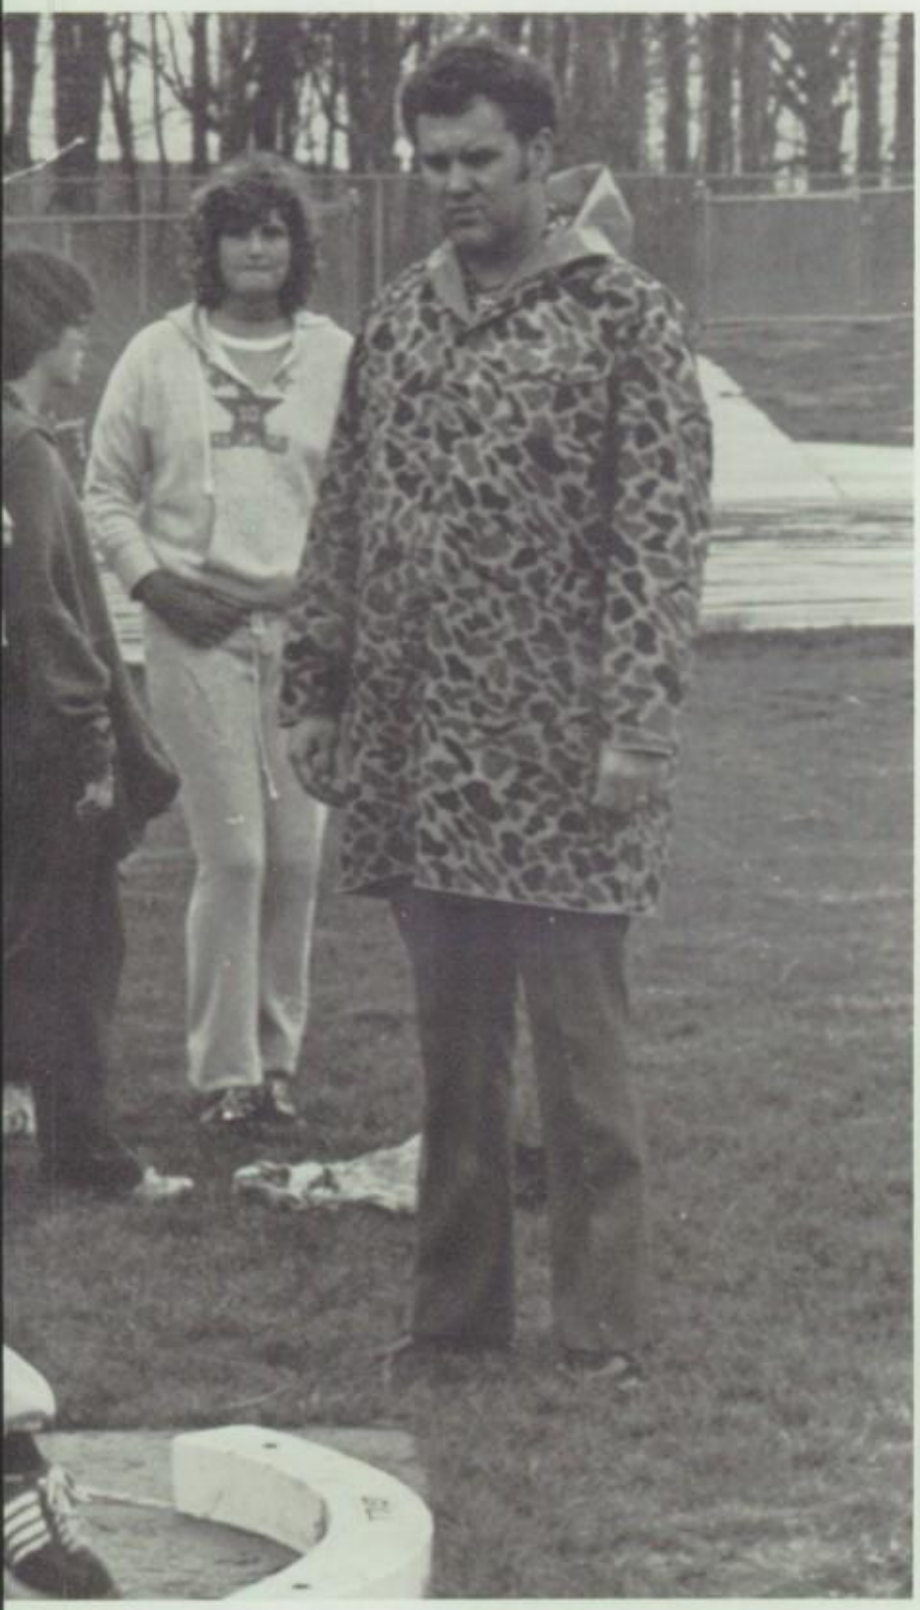
All of this considered, the girls were given a fine chance when sectionals arrived.



The strength and determination is visible on Senior Beth Doehrman's face as she puts the shot.

After a long flight, a landing is most important to Jackie Cooper, who lands with confidence.

Freshman high jumper Tracy Wright strains with every fiber to clear the bar successfully.



The stamina and guts of a runner are the important factors during a long race as Debbie Hughes shows.

Senior Teresa Bell stays within striking distance of her opponent as she anchors the 880 relay.

1st time's a charmer

Wayne's biggest adversary cropped up again in sectionals when the Archers topped the General squad despite numerous Wayne placings.

Sophomore and Senior sensations, Sybil Perry and Melinda Barfield, led the team as they did during the year. Sybil landed firsts in two events while also anchoring two victorious relays. Melinda finished second in the hurdles, and likewise ran in two winning relays.

Regionals marched to the same tune as Perry won her two events, Barfield the hurdles, and the girls won two relays. South again edged out Wayne, but the General cinderwomen earned valuable experience for the upcoming state meet.

The buildup had the two Fort Wayne schools as major contenders, and gave the Archers an edge. Wayne was not to be intimidated as they burst out to twenty-six quick points on victories by Perry in the 100 and Barfield in the hurdles with Robin Johnson a close third.

As the dozens of other schools tried to get fired up and catch the Generals, Blosser ignited his girls and widened the gap as Perry captured a third in the 440, and the opposition fell farther behind.

The Wayne girls went into their final two events, the 440 relay and the 880 medley relay, needing still more points to put the meet out of reach. The Medley relay, consisting of Cooper, Anderson, Barfield, and Perry, received extraordinary runs from the four girls for Wayne's third state title. The Generals' 440 relay wasn't faring as well until, the final sprinter, Perry, burst out after receiving the handoff to propel the girls to a third.

Wayne finished with an awesome 48 points to easily outpoint runnerup South Side in a Fort Wayne finale.

After the victory, the girls were treated to a ride through the city and a commendation from the mayor.

Jackie Cooper, Judy Anderson, Melinda Barfield, and Sybil Perry capture a winning moment.

Exploding from the blocks, freshman Jackie Cooper starts her initial leg of the victorious 880 med. relay.

The thrill of victory is evident on the face of Sybil Perry, who anchored the state champ medley relay.

Melinda Barfield takes the initiative and the lead in the hurdles which she would win.

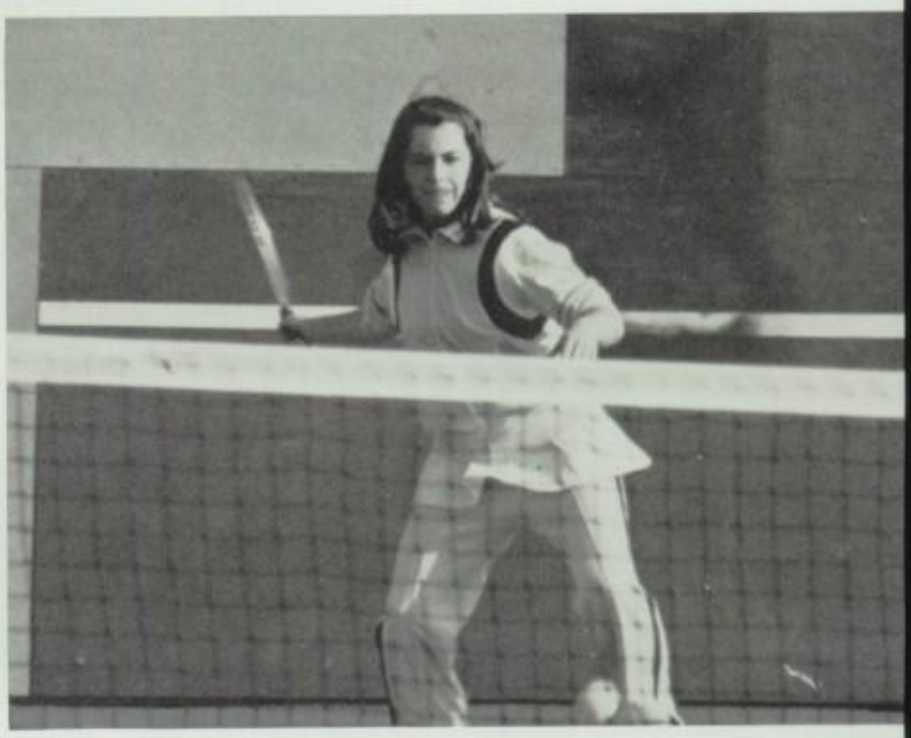
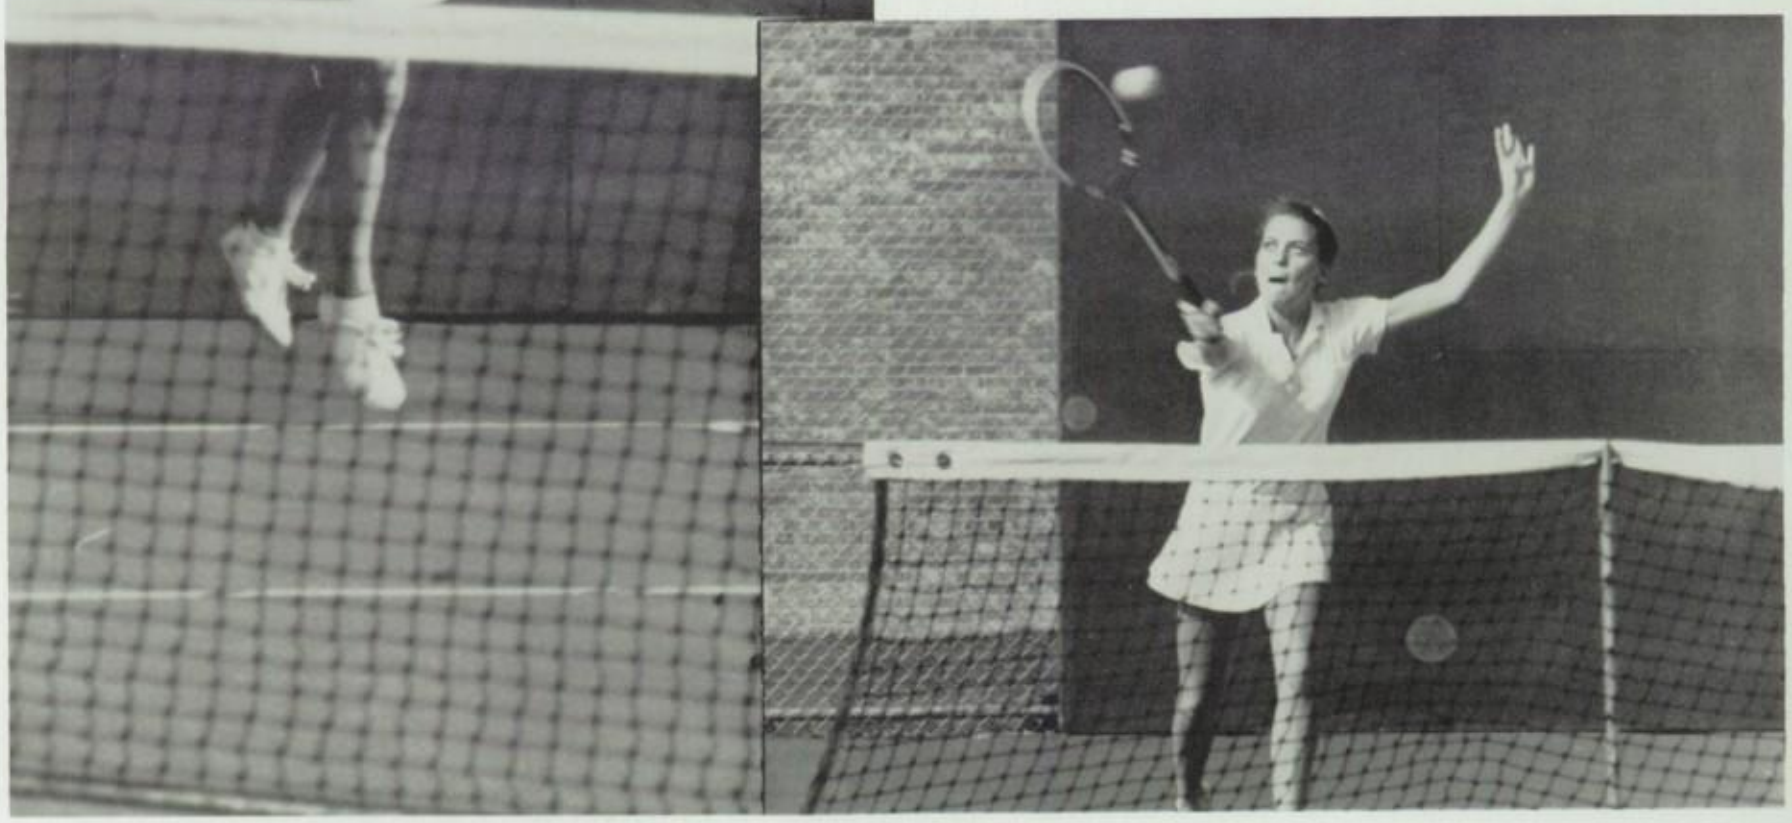
love . . . lost

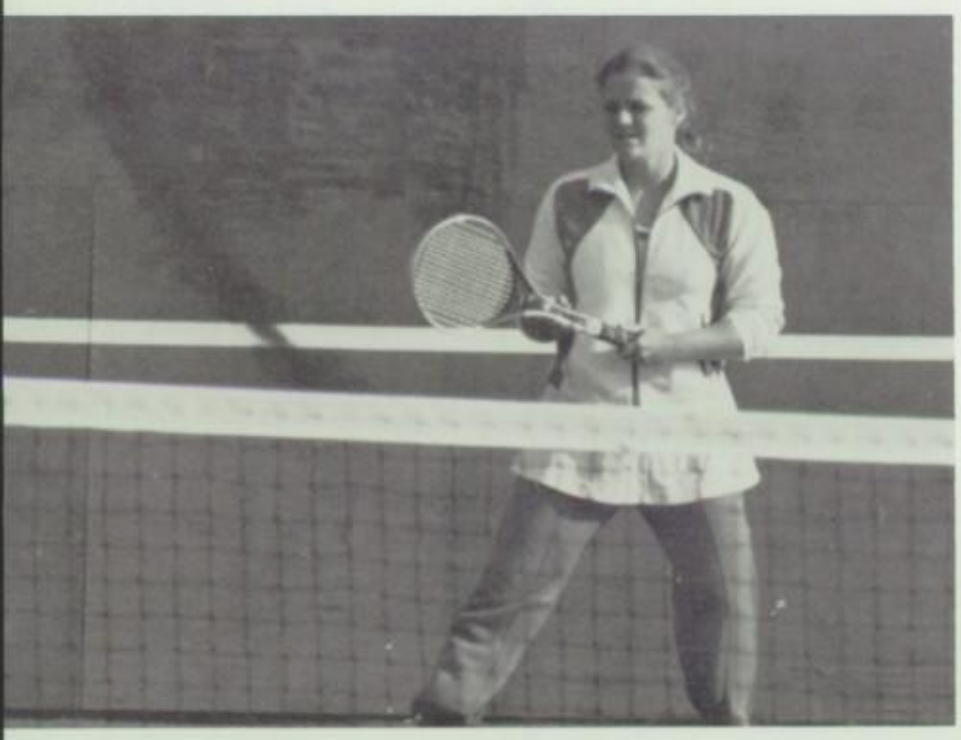
The rise in popularity and talent in girls' tennis, especially on the North side of town, put a damper on Wayne's team this year as they fell to a disappointing eighth place in the SAC. The General girls were able to post only two conference victories and finished with a 5-9 overall mark before sectionals. Coach Shaidnagle, in his first year, led the girls to a surprising third place in sectionals with some fine performances in singles and doubles.





For the third straight year Kathy O'Brien led the team as she ended with an excellent 11-3 record and was considered one of the top players in the area. Kathy lost only one match out of five in sectionals, falling to an eventual state finalist from Homestead. The number 1 doubles combination of Ruanne Berger and Linda Weber that wound up fourth in the sectionals and lost only five times in seventeen matches.

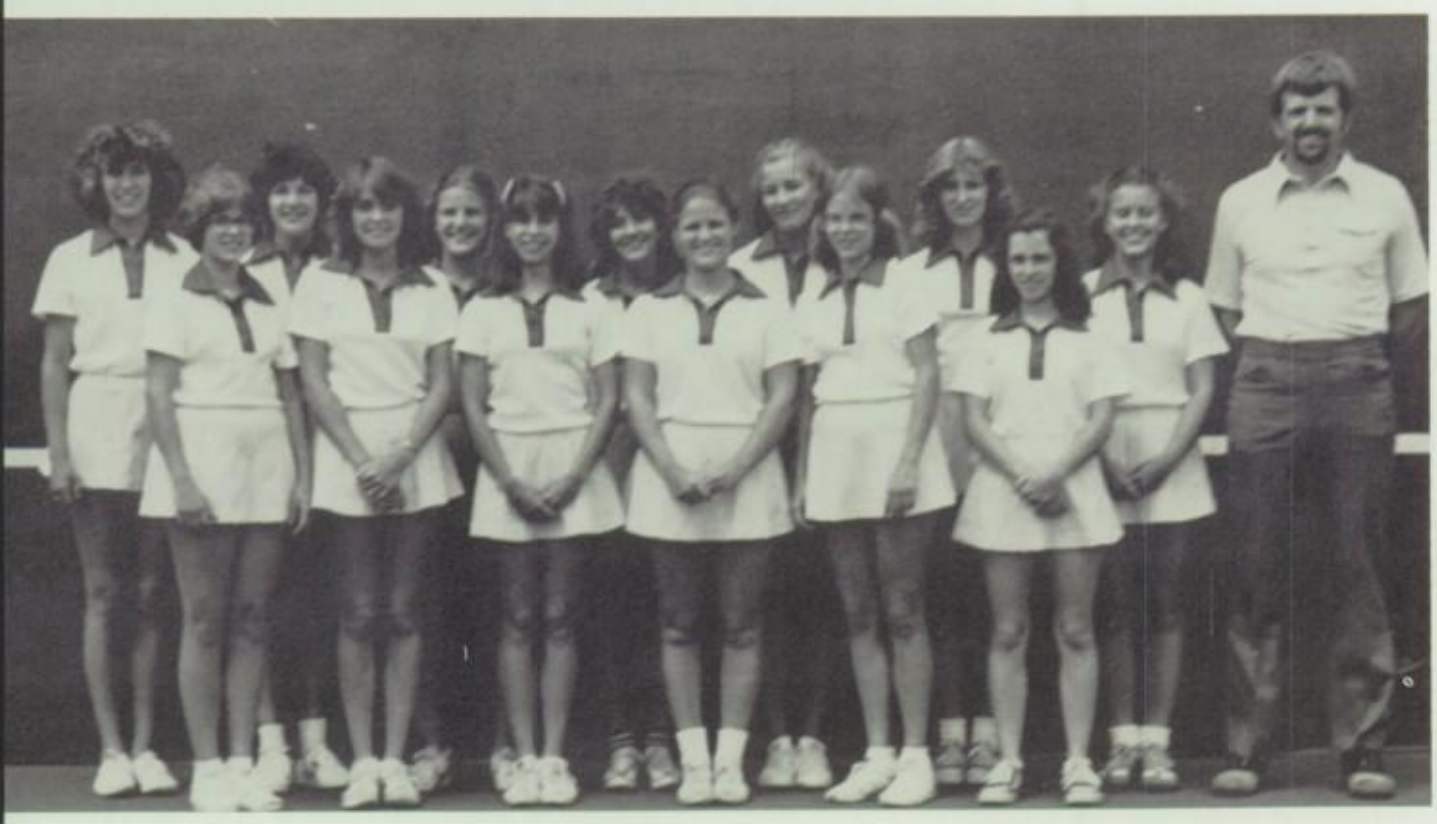
Sophomores, Natalie Ellis and Lisa Ralph filled in the second and third singles positions respectively and performed admirably with Ellis scoring a winning mark in sectionals and Ralph filling in occasionally at doubles spots. Junior Julie Peppler and freshman Denise Holloway finished out the squad as the second doubles team and often found themselves playing opponents with years more experience but still managed a respectable showing.



Natalie Ellis exhibits a leaping serve which helped her gain the number two singles position.

A smashing backhand serves notice to most opponents that Kathy O'Brien is one of the best in the area.

Ruanne Berger's maneuverability made for a successful year as the top doubles team with Linda Weber.



Julie Peppler watches anxiously as her teammate at the second doubles position Lisa Ralph hits.

Row 1: Janice Kirkman, Ruanne Berger, Kathy O'Brien, Julie Peppler, Janet Kirkman, Lisa Ralph. Row 2: Julie Altenberg, Erin Flanigan, Linda Weber, Natalie Ellis, Ann Trainer, Angie Jackson, Denise Holloway.

Patience is a virtue, seems to be true as Dave Wilson studies the lie of the putt.

Brent Gorrell pauses for the down swing that will propel the ball up, up and away.

Dave Wilson's blurred iron gives evidence to his strong swing in a tight spot.

Tom Smith shows the technqiue necessary to lead the team in season and sectional play.

Linc led `lincśmen

The 1979 golf team was best described as balanced. The top four linksmen consisted of a freshman, a sophomore, a junior, and a senior. The senior, Tom Smith, led the squad to a tie for third in sectionals with his third place finish individually. Smith was eliminated at regionals, but won the Wayne Award over seniors Mark Trainer and Brent Gorrell.

Underclassmen David Wilson and Linc and Brad Schneider were vital in the team's runner-up finish in the SAC. Linc Schneider carded the lowest round of the year with a 34 at McMillen, one of six times he led Wayne in 1979, to help defeat Bishop Dwenger for second in the conference. Still, coach Churchward's troops had most of their success on their home course, Brookwood.

Concentration shows in the subdued effort of Mark Trainer to sink a short putt.

Linc Schneider executes a deadly aim in sending the ball on its last leg home.

Reservist Greg Smith puts in the time it takes to be an accomplished golfer.

Tom Smith sports a grin of confidence as he relaxes between holes.

CHRISTMAS CHEERS

The incoming Freshmen quickly adapted to the surroundings of high school. When the class felt apathetic, which was obvious at the Christmas assembly, the cheerleaders were there to raise the spirit level. Though the freshmen suffered a poor showing at the assembly, they had a good turn out at the Deck-the-Halls party.

The "Deck the Halls" competition brought cheer to G-Hall as Tom Nelson and Kris Shepler decorate.

Among their many duties as cheerleaders, the freshman squad lends a hand at a volleyball pep session.

The freshmen came straight from Junior High, whether Miami or Geyer, and were thrust into the mature world of High School. These students were removed from a school where they were the eldest and pushed into a situation where they became the youngest. Some situations like freshman English, were changed for them. In this required class, the freshmen had the pleasure of seeing Romeo and Juliet, and boarding yellow buses for the short trip to Southtown Mall for the viewing of the Shakespearean classic.

Freshman enthusiasts prepare for their trek to the nearby Southtown Mall cinema.

Giving an excited glance to the camera, Nancy Rarick boards the bus to view Romeo and Juliet.

EXCHANGE

The freshmen's reserve was felt by the drama department. In the fall musical, appearances were made by Sandy Gaskill, Sherry Boatright, Pam Shookman and Paul Alter. Boatright, Shookman, and Alter continued their success in the spring production of Fair Exchange.

In the art department Sherry Boatright once again starred, this time with Rich Pennell, winning Gold Keys.

Sherri Boatright skillfully portrays "Apple Eyed Agnes" during her Fair Exchange role.

Sandy Gaskill dances her way through a musical number in Wayne's opening performance of Music Man.

The versatile Paul Alter adds zest to his Fair Exchange role of the bandit, Ched Armstrong.

basketball team as well as the track team.

The wrestling squad received assistance from AAU experienced Brian Konger, and last, but certainly not least, is gymnastics sensation Terri Bade. Bade earned a position on the optional team and numerous ribbons throughout the season.

Eluding a defender, freshman roundballer Chris Adams drives for a score.

Brian Konger, the only freshman to letter in wrestling, displays his sectional booty.

Freshmen completed their first year at Wayne with a minimum number of problems. The class was led by president Melinda Keck, Vice-President Randy Correll, and Secretary-Treasurer Barbara Andorfer. These officers, with the assistance of the freshman representatives, guided the class through a year of trials and tribulations. The names of many freshmen were heard echoing throughout the year and the same names will be the same names heard for the next three years . . .

Melinda Keck, freshman class president, leads the class in fun and money making projects.

The freshman class filled with enthusiasm decorates the G-Hall as Santa's Workshop.

Outside the auditorium Brian Konger welcomes viewers to Wayne's Winter Concert with a drum roll.

With the gleeful cheers from his friends, Paul Alter takes his place on the Valentine Court.

UN"DENNY"ABLE

On the sophomore sports scene, Julie Altenburg assisted the volleyball team as did Lori Zimmerman. Zimmerman was also a member of the basketball team. Daymnond Whitt proved versatile on the basketball team along with fellow sophomores Dennis Duncan, Eric Thomas, and Linc Schneider.

In gymnatics Sharon Tsiguloff and Beth Block performed on the intermediate level while Sybil Perry was on the optional team. Loren Bunnel advanced to semi-state in wrestling, and Kevin Cooke and John Bowman aided the team.

After all the teams are examined, perhaps the most outstanding athlete isn't on any team at Wayne. Swimmer Jon Denny received his share of recognition as he was honored as the top 15-18 year-old in Indiana. Jon went on to win the national YMCA championships in the 200 yard butterfly and 1650 yard freestyle.

John Denny displays the form that has made him one of the top swimmers in the U.S.

SPEAK SOPHILY

Many sophomores were seen in various shapes and forms throughout the school year. The speech team had Janice Kryder, Joe Andorfer, and Scott Dove.

The Deja Vu staff received the writing talent of Regina Schultz who earned an honorable mention with the short story that she submitted to the Purdue Creative Writing Contest.

With the help of the senior's tape, devoted members of the sophomore class decorate the main hall.

PLAY TIME

Two of Wayne's Fine Arts productions had talented sophomores in major acting roles. Scott Dove held the leading part of Harold Hill in the fall Musical Music Man with Joe Andorfer in a supporting role. Fair Exchange saw, once again, Joe Andorfer on the stage and Sandy Huber in another major acting role.

Artist Lynn Jones received a Gold Key for her art work submitted to the Regional Scholastic Awards Exhibition of northern Indiana. Many other Sophomores actively participated in numerous other organizations and groups.

Soft shoeing to success, Scott Dove appears as Harold Hill in Wayne's fall musical.

Holding her own on stage is the class of 81's Secretary-Treasurer Sandy Huber.

MOVING IN

The sophomore spirit increased as the year went on. Sophomores participated in spirit activities during homecoming and sectional week and were included in the Pep sessions — the few that we had.

Like several other sophomores, Joe Andorfer, Class President, took his spirit and dedication one step further. This one step led him out of Wayne and to the "WMEE Steve Martin Look and Act Alike Contest" where he placed a respectable eighth.

Author Reggi Schultz accepts her honorable mention certificate at the Purdue Writing Contest.

Joe Andorfer practices his eighth place winning Steve Martin impression for the WMEE contest.

One-half of the Scott Dove-Teresa Paetz duo practices his part of "The Fantasticks."

Down on the ranch, the Sophomore spirit stampeded, especially with cowgirl Cindy Ayers.

4, 6, 8, . . .

The athletic abilities of the juniors provided many of Wayne's varsity teams with winning seasons. Linda Weber, Kelly Encoff, and Joanie Zimmerman shone with their energy in volleyball, as the basketball team enjoyed the talents of Zimmerman, Encoff, and Janice Tourney.

Junior stars on the football team were Andy Lebamoff and Kevin Wright, and the basketball team saw the abilities of Wright, Tracy Guy, Steve Fanning, and Vaughn Satrks. The talents of Jay Goldner and Julie Peppler were used on the tennis and gymnastics teams respectively.

STAGE STRUCK

Juniors appeared with some prominence throughout the year. Andy Buroker, Michelle Hamrick, Teresa Paetz, and Michelle Ort appeared in a Wayne production. Barry Minniefield and Buroker appeared solo with the Swing Choir. Jeanette Roman made an appearance with the band as Drum Majorette and Laurie Hammerstein, Debbie Powell, and Steve Welker won Regional Scholastic Art Gold Keys.

SPIRIT BOOMS

The spirit of the juniors was evident in the past year. Junior representation was seen in the Band Corps as well as the Band and Choirs. Student Council had its share of juniors as did the Cheerleading squads.

Individuality was also present in the Class of '80, both in and out of school.

One of these individuals in particular was junior graduate Bruce Crist. During his short stay at Wayne, he appeared on the tennis courts.

Beautifying the glove line were several junior members including the petite Julianne Light.

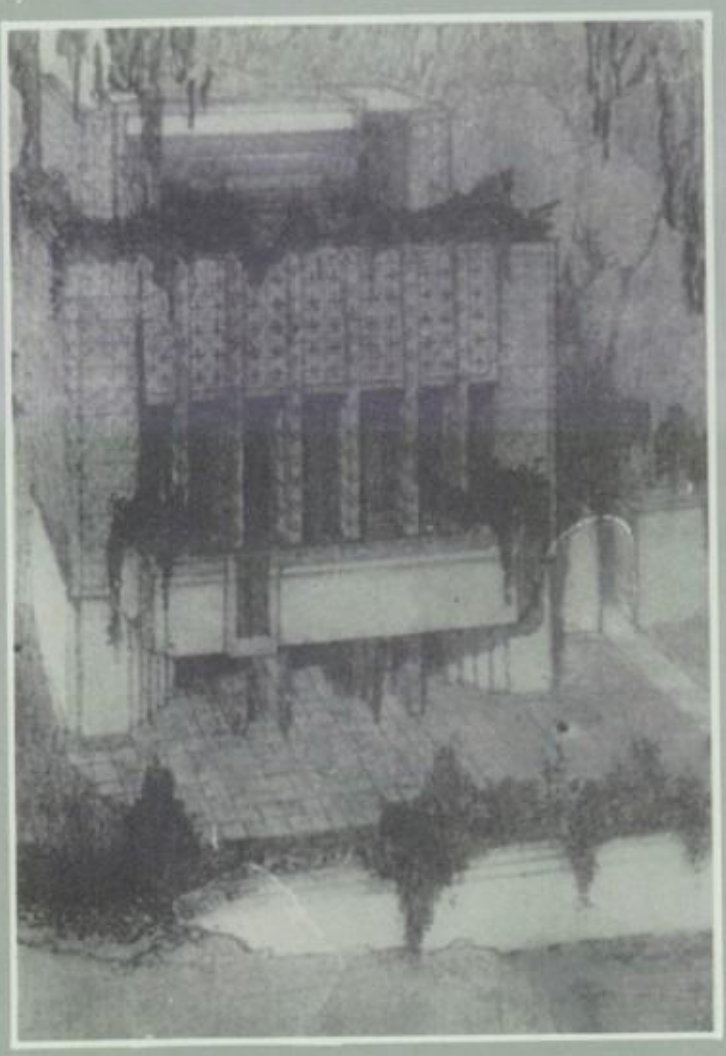
Unique without four walls

"Every great architect is — necessarily — a great poet, a great original interpreter of his time." This theory allowed Frank Lloyd Wright to design some of the most beautiful and creative buildings of our time. As a poet he tried to frame the prose around him in the poetry of design — transcending it in the process. The Wright-inspired designs on the following pages contain this year's seniors in the sense of giving them the structure necessary to bloom beyond their grey surroundings.



Many unique individuals in this year's senior class went beyond this school for their education. Gail Peppler competed in the A.A.U. gymnastic circuit, Molly Hagan appeared in Civic Theatre productions, and Debbie Denney competed in A.A.U. swimming meets. All three and many more realized that four walls do not a school make.

The artist is one who continues to perfect, and Gail Peppler exemplifies this, practicing long and hard on her routines.

Socialized Seniors

"Unique" was the word for a group of seniors who became known as the "burgerites," and McDonalds became a turning point in the latter half of the year. Attempts to "beef-up" their lunches were thwarted, and an unwanted controversy was glorified with television coverage. Only an unconventional surrender was gained, and Big Mac memories were never lost.

Being their usual and unassuming selves, members of the senior "wild bunch" prepare yet another sophisticated prank.

"Exchanging" Abilities

The gymnastics team boasted only one senior while the sectional champion wrestling squad had just three. Tish Moore played a valuable part in the gymnasts' success, and Ray Konger, Pat Nycum, and Doug Hawk captured sectional victories.

In spring sports, sprinter David Brewer advanced to state, and Flanders Carswell proved solid in the short and medium distances. Melinda Barfield was an established sprinter, and Carol Pebbly ran the long distances for the girls. Mark Wright became a top hurler, with Jim Dick an outstanding fielder on the baseball team. In golf Mark Trainer added low scores for the linksmen.

Suspended in flight David Brewer shows extreme concentration while keeping his eye on his goal.

The free-throwing Swede, Johan Hofvander, crossed the ocean and landed on the basketball court.

Serving was only one of Beth Doehrman's abilities that gained her a starting position on the varsity squad.

Seniors "Pub"licize

The senior Pub room members have been through harrowing times. They endured their Sophomore year when Rosie Barnes depleted the photo paper supply, surivived their Junior year as witnesses of the repercussions of the Human Rights issue of the De Ja Vu, and held its breath as John Metzger raced to complete the color pictures for this year's senior album.

A wild and crazy group, this year's "Pubbers" assumed more responsibility than did any previous group.

Chris Mattes and "the Bork" race to see which section, sports or news, will finish first.

Since the yearbook has been started, the question might be asked, "Why are these people laughing?"

Leadership has been plentiful in the senior class. Lisa Gemmill, Ruanne Berger, Carrie Mathias, and Kathy O'Brien have led cheers, as Phil Steigerwald and Chris Reynolds led the music department. Rhonda Moser and Brenda Bowman have been prominent in the art department, with Mike Hunkler joining Bowman for high honors in academics.

Mrs. Lipp and Miss Kampschmidt started the class of '79 off on a good foot three years ago and continued to guide the class through the duration at Wayne.

Although the Senior Student Council members appeared "mellow," they were involved not only in school but in out of school activities as well. Tracy Dennis and Chris Lebamoff were members of the Mayor's Youth Commission. Albert Stephens was our liaison to the Citizens Advisory Council, and Molly Hagan served on the Embassy Educational Committee.

Decking the Halls along with a Christmas Tree Chris Lebamoff and Mark Summers disguise the evergreen as a toy soldier.

Anxiously awaiting Al Stephens' projects report, Vanessa Pasqualetti does an impression of a secretary with no typing experience.

TO MARILYN: Well hell i don't know where to start. It's been a hell of a longtime 17 yrs! And i have enjoyed all of it!! Especially the parties.... you just about said all of the stuff in my yearbook that i was going to put in yours!....

RECORD STORE...

...AND A

WHOLE LOT MORE! HA!!

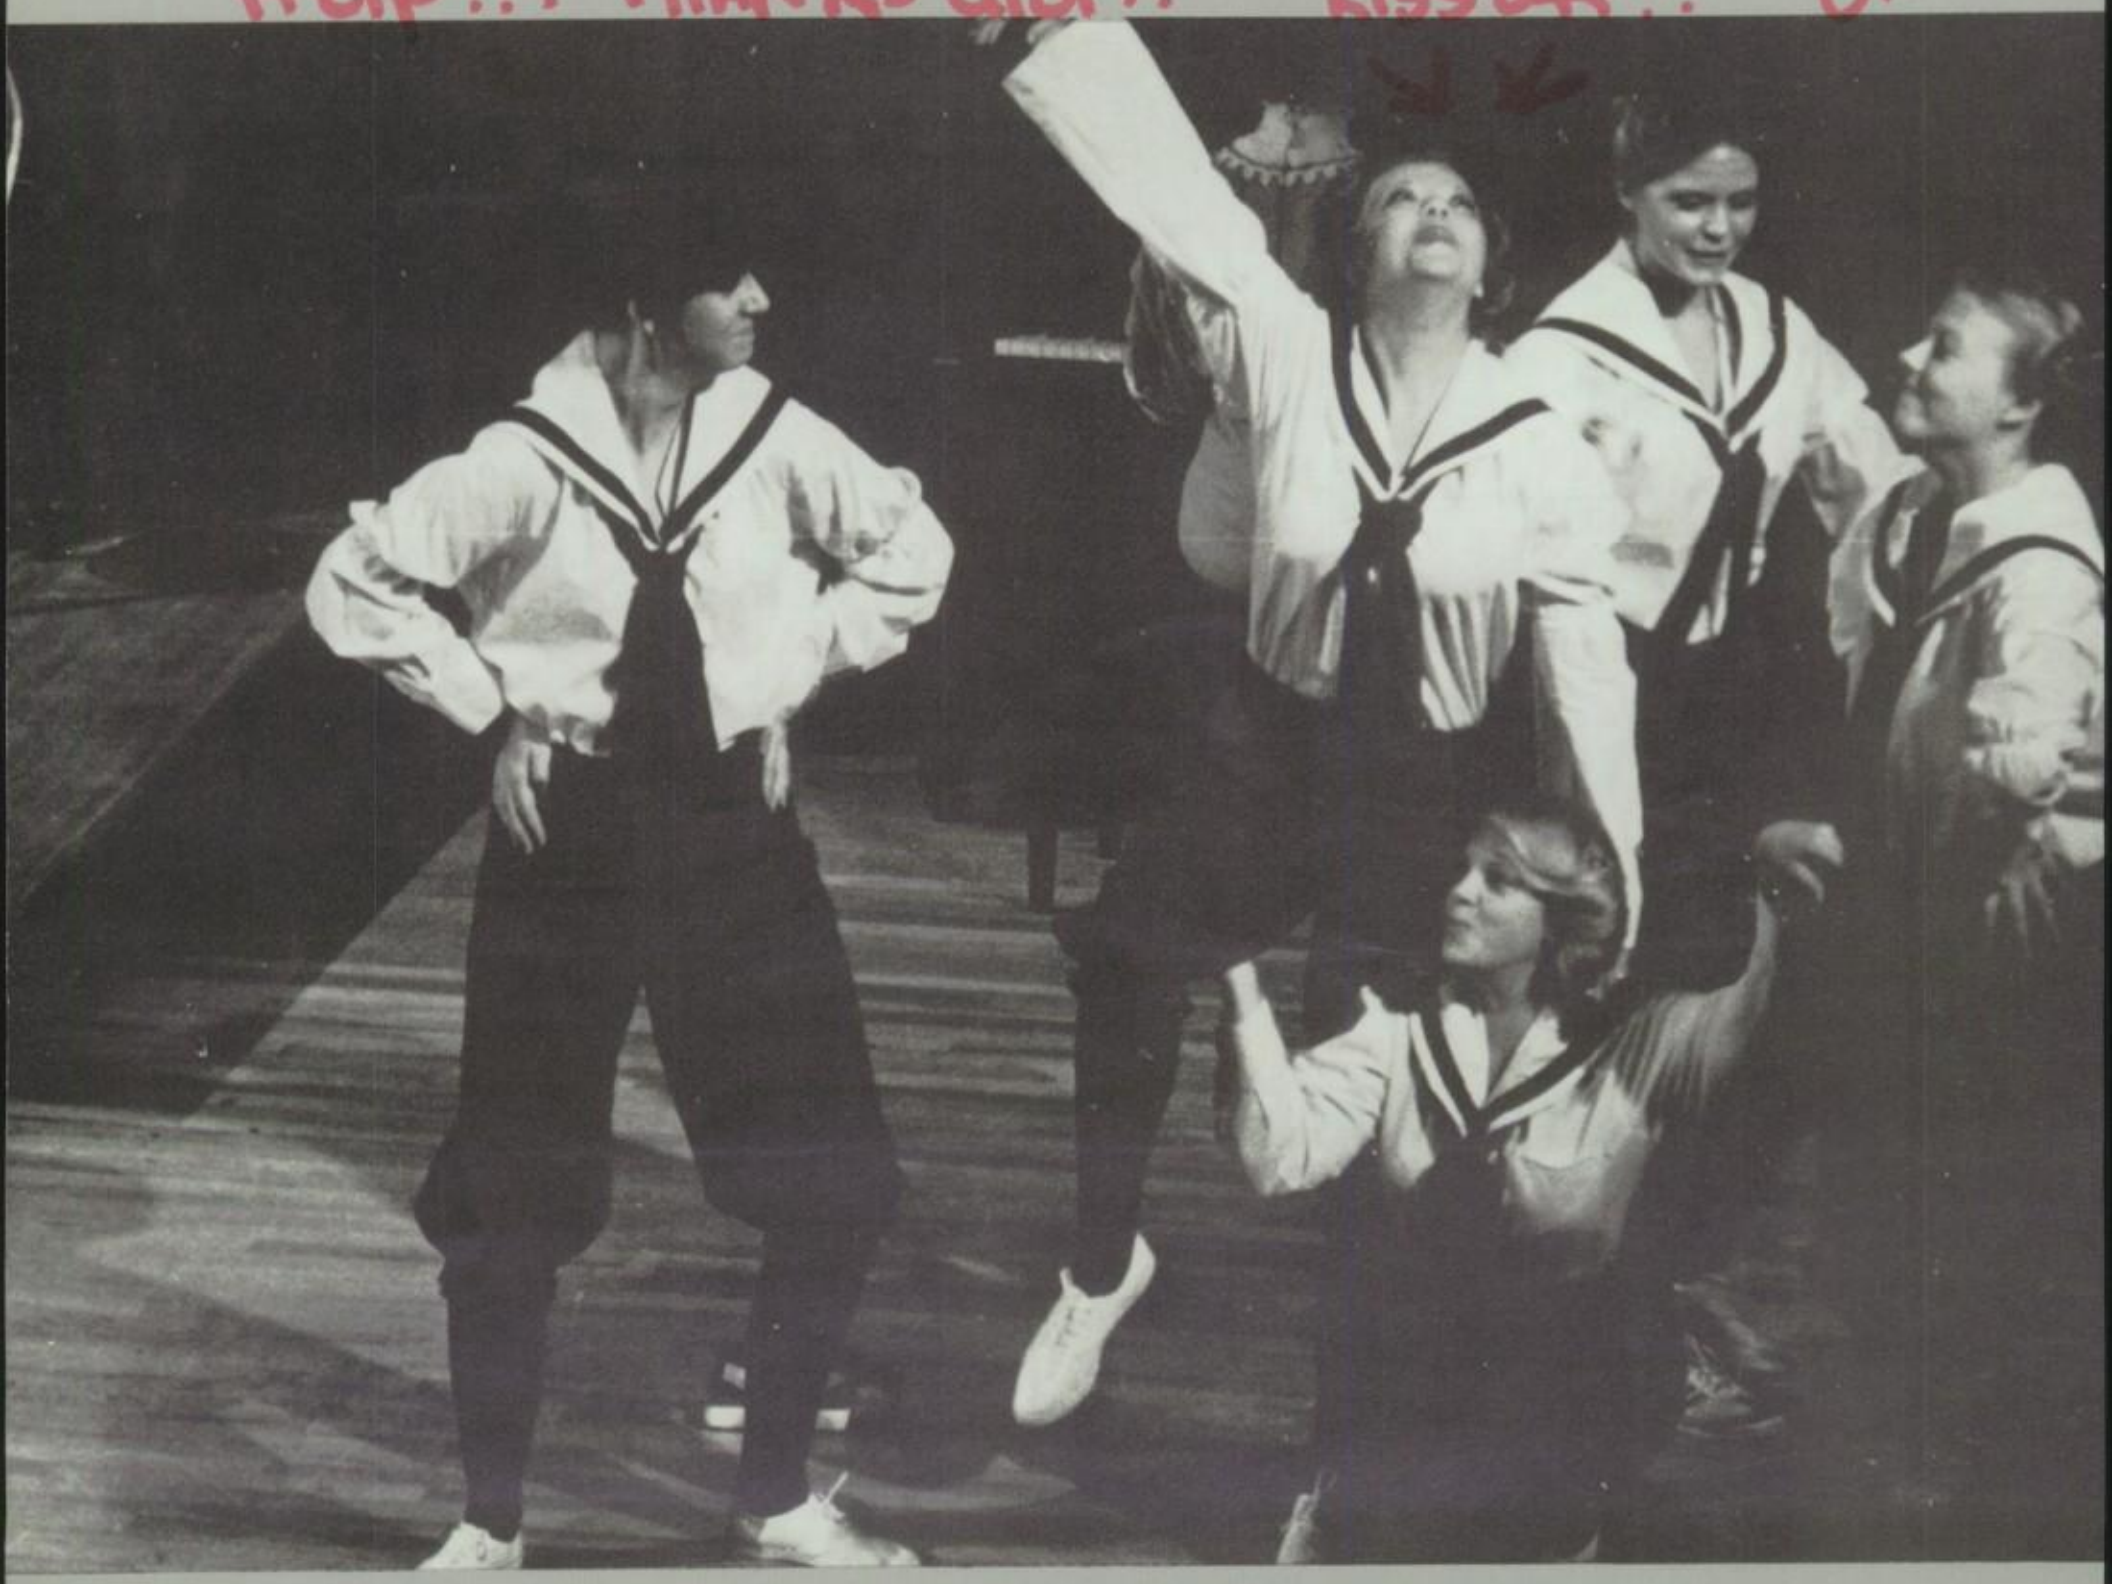
clive got a nice guy + i know you will too! So we are just going to get loaded Oct 10 and as far as that goes Dec 10 too!!! That reminds me to pick up some papers.....

RECORDS AND PARAPHERNALIA – – SOUTHGATE PLAZA

Well i jiest don't know what else to say but be good and "keep on Keepin'"

Love, Karen "80" or never!

P.S. THANX's for helping me in school it WAS A BIG Help !!!. THANK's alot !!. Kiss off !!



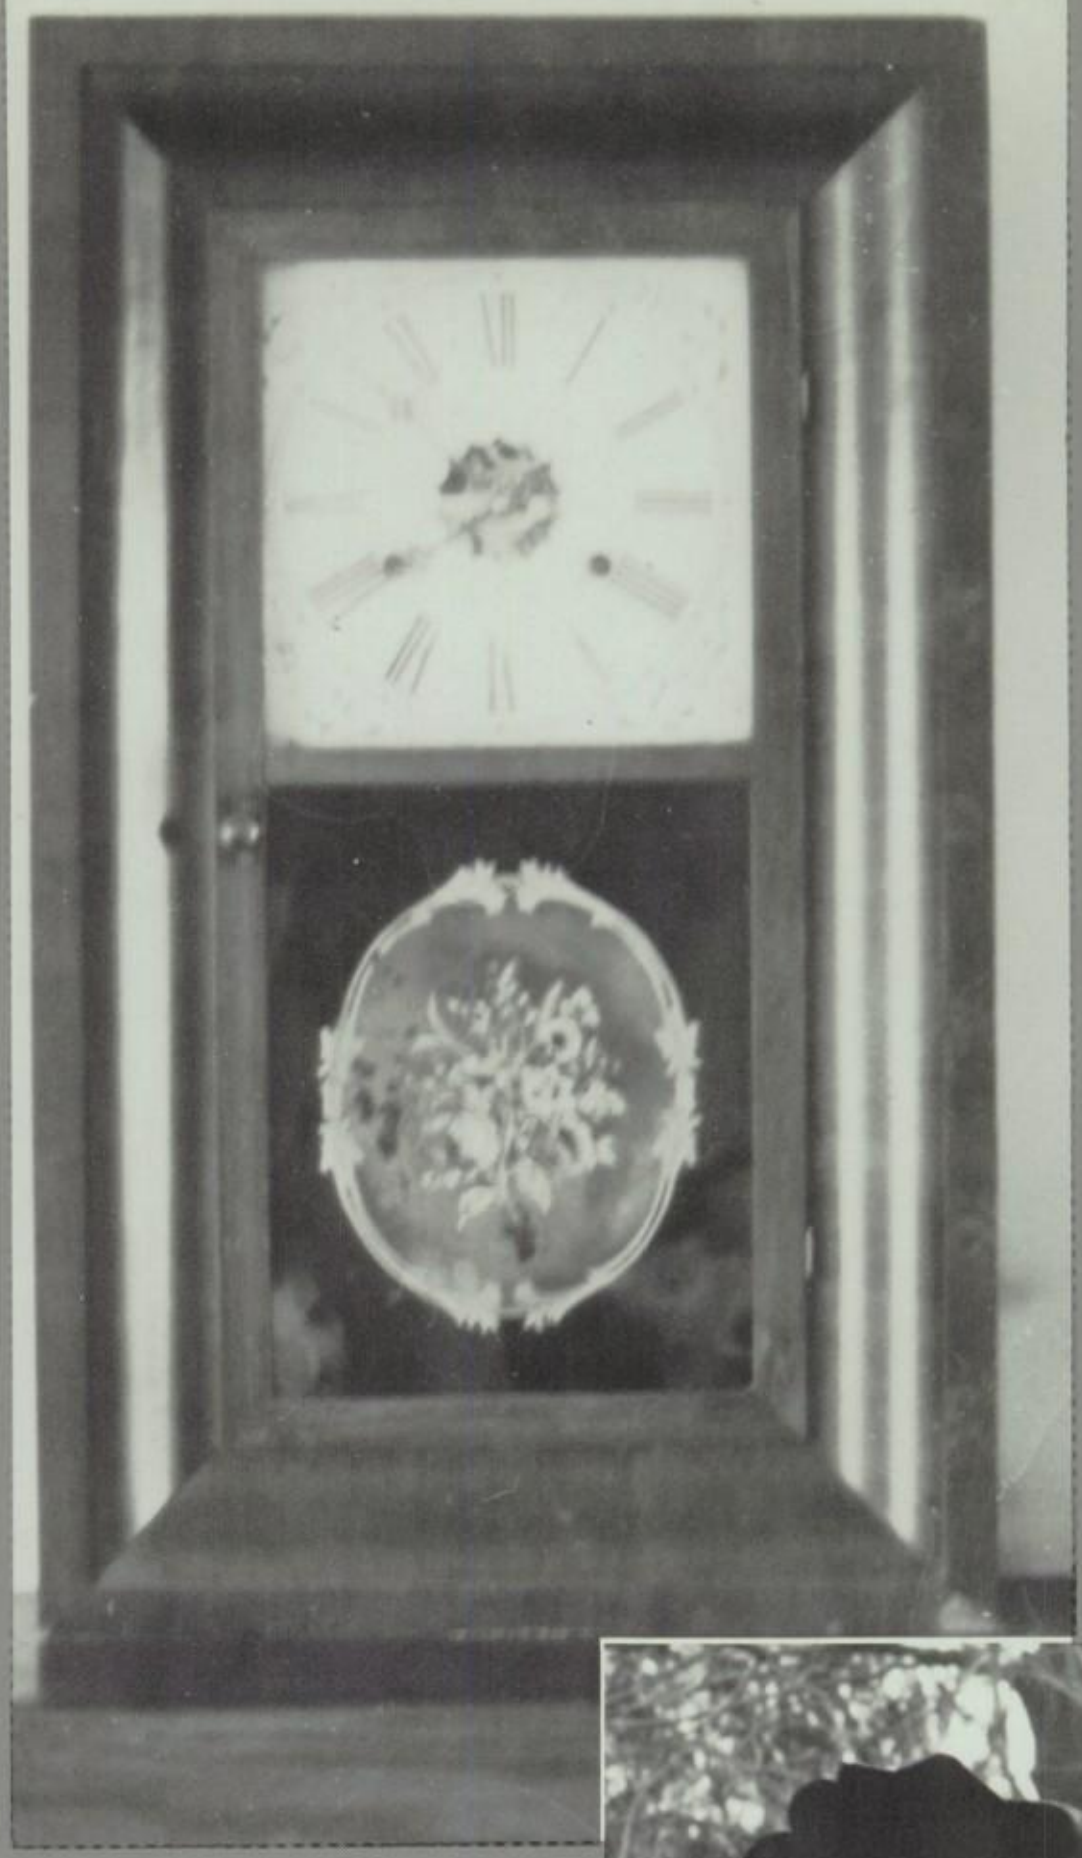
Your Time Machine

As you page through this book you will be looking back. Whether it be to smile, laugh, or just remember how you grew; a yearbook can capture the never-never land of the past. But reminiscence is not the only possibility offered by a yearbook.

Looking back is something we all must do. When remembering we recall all that we have done and realize the process of achieving can still go on. Fear of the future, the fear of simply recreating all past mistakes — should have no role here. We look back to remember and learn.

Many people simply refuse to continue. They think they have finished their last gran plie when they have not even begun to bend. They cease to live in the grey areas by choice and define themselves in stark whites and blacks thus proclaiming their stagnation.

May your high school years give you the incentive to grow in whatever you do. Never be frightened to look back, because the past, properly understood, is both the base for the present and the bridge to the future.



Maylin,

Look back

Time never stops
it goes on forever, remaining in our thoughts
the memories,
both good and bad
ideals we had.
When we look back on the years
the joys and tears that we both shared together, so long ago, but still remembered.

— Lucy Hagan

Marilyn
So a great pic
I met along time ago But I must really say it was great well I see ya later Party
Heard
Love
Mary

'Everything alters,
I heard the old, old men say.
And one by one we drop away.'

They had hands like claws, and their knees
Were twisted like the old thorn-trees

By the waters.
I heard the old, old men say,
'All that's beautiful drifts away
Like the waters.' — W. B. Yeats

Marilyn
Im buzzed so excusse me!

Marilyn,
Hugh! Nice (honoring + partyin occasionally) with you
Good luck in the future

So the only real partyier in my 2nd period besides me. It's to bad the junior girl tore you up in powder puff. oh I still owe you a flirt. (hooter)
Good luck in the future
and stay off on the goodies.
Later

M.S.
Well I'm buzzed AS hell! Nancy was out getting loaded! I'm taking
An Acid Trip!!!
Take it easy!
